G.O.P. 'Hurricane' Hits R. I.

Quinn Routed By Vanderbilt

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 9 (INS)—The Republican party, staging its own version of a political hurricane, today had swept a full slate into effect to regain domination of Rhode Island's government.

William H. Vanderbilt, wealthy member of the famous family, becomes the first Republican governor of Rhode Island since 1930 by a margin of nearly 44,000. The G. O. P. rolled back into power with a vehemence that even resulted in the election of the first Republican mayor of Providence in 25 years.

GAIN IN CONGRESS

The election, the most hectic in years, was marked by a stabbing, fist fights and charges of repeating.

Riding in on the Republican tidal wave were Harry Sandager, who defeated Edward J. Fenelon (D.) in the Second Congressional District, and Charles F. Risk (R.), who won from Representative Aime Forand (D.) in the First District.

John F. Collins ended a quarter century of Democratic domination of the Providence mayoralty by defeating Mayor James E. Dunne and terminating Dunne's hitherto uninterrupted term of a dozen years.

The magnitude of Vanderbilt's victory, an echo of the famous "Battle of 'Gansett," mounted with the arrival of returns from the more populous centers. With only 20 voting precincts unreported out of 245 the Republican candidate had amassed the runaway total of 154,686, or 43,431 more than the 111,255 ballots cast for the Democratic Quinn.

O'HARA "ALSO RAN"

Walter E. O'Hara, former race-track magnate, polled only 10,370 votes. O'Hara had blamed Quinn for ousting him as head of the Narragansett horse racing track after it had been closed temporarily by steel helmeted state troopers and with projecting his National protest against the New Deal was credited today for the Republican sweep that elected Leverett Saltonstall governor and took over four of the five other constitutional offices in Massachusetts.

Attorney General Paul A. Dever was the only Democrat to stave off the Republican sweep. And the chief surprise was the defeat of State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley.

Former Governor James M. Curley, Democratic nominee against Saltonstall, trailed him by 148,389 with 1791 out of the state's 1794 precincts counted. Indications pointed to a final defeat by about 150,000.

Attorney General Dever was feared for a time to have suffered the same fate as his state ticket colleagues. He trailed by more than 50,000 at one point in the count but rose again until he reached a plurality of 144,915 when 1790 of the 1794 precincts were counted.

BLAMED ON DEAL

At the same point, Buckley trailed by 20,966; Secretary of the Commonwealth Frederic W. Cook was ahead of Mrs. Katherine A. Foley by 246,754 and State Treasurer William E. Hurley led Owen Gallagher by 275,895.

With 1791 precincts counted Lieutenant-Governor-elect Horace T. Cahill was 145,877 ahead of James H. Brennan, the Democratic nominee.

The turnover, one of the most surprising in the annals of Massachusetts politics, was charged by many political observers to a concerted move for a try at Republicanism as a means toward recovery.

Because of the growing feeling against the national administration, many within the Democratic party felt today that endorsement of the ticket by Postmaster General James A. Farley, right hand man of President Roosevelt might actually have been the "kiss of death."

The more rabid were frank in criticism of Farley, who was quoted in a pre-primary statement last September:

"The Democratic nomination isn't worth a nickel to anyone except Governor Hurley."

It was a difficult obstacle to overcome in election campaigning after the party had turned down Governor Hurley for a second

Saltonstall Gives Pledge to Clean Relief of Politics

By PATRICK J. COSGROVE

"Anyone doing good work in a necessary job for the Commonwealth need fear no purge when I take office in January."

It was Governor-elect Leverett Saltonstall speaking at his Chestnut Hill road home in Newton today in the first interview he has given since his overwhelming victory at the polls.

Rested after exactly five hours of sleep, the newly-elected governor expressed his views on many of the problems which will confront his administration.

He will enforce civil service laws.

He will take politics out of relief.

There will be an "open door" policy in the executive suite at the State House.

There was a note of calm deliberation about his words.

His is a disposition to avoid making extravagant promises.

"I want to sit down and think things over," the governor-elect said, "and try to obtain the best advice possible on the problems which I think will confront me."

WANTS BEST MINDS

He scorned the suggestion that he might have a "brain trust" in mind.

"The advice I seek will be the advice of the best minds in the commonwealth, irrespective of party affiliations," he explained.

The injection of politics into relief, which the Hearst newspapers have so strenuously fought, is one of the matters which engaged the attention of the new chief executive when he assumes office.

"I know, and everyone knows," he asserted, "that in many cases applicants for jobs and for relief must have political 'pull.'"

"That vicious system of capitalizing upon the needy and jobless must, and will, be driven by me from this Commonwealth."

BAN ON SALES TAX

On the subject of adoption of a state sales tax to boost state revenue, the new governor is adamant in opposition.

"I am against any further taxation unless absolutely necessary," he declared, "but I am against a sales taxa nder any circumstances."

Governor-elect Saltonstall is also opposed to diversion of gasoline taxes to the general fund.

"I believe," he declared, "that these taxes should be used for highway and bridge work, that is, they should be applied for the benefit of the autoist."

He admitted that the recent hurricane damage might absorb the bulk of the gasoline taxes this year and perhaps next.

WELCOME TO ALL

But he expressed the hope that during his administration he would see them returned to their original purpose.

The new Chief Executive also holds strong views on the "open door" policy in his relations with his constituency.

"Anyone who has legitimate business at my office," he declared, "will be welcome. I will strive to see everyone, no matter what his job is—'important' or 'unimportant.'"

Discussing the Republican sweep throughout the nation, the governor-elect did not profess to see anything beyond local significance in the election returns.

VIEWS NATIONAL AFFAIRS

"I believe," he asserted, "that the people generally are with the national administration in what is being done for their welfare.

"The trouble is that they are not satisfied in how it is being done."

Governor-elect Saltonstall is convinced the Republican party, however, has undergone a far-reaching change.

"I for one," he declared, "no longer look on party principles in an abstract way.

"I and other liberal Republicans now also take stock of the individual with the view to bettering his economic and social status.

"There is one message I wish the Boston Evening American to carry to the people of Massachusetts," the newly elected governor concluded.

"That is that they can rest assured that I shall strive with all my power of mind and soul to give them the most efficient and most honest government they have ever had."

Foley Margin Set at 100,000

Far ahead of his ticket and with a plurality exceeding that accorded ex-Governor Curley in Boston and Suffolk County, District Attorney William J. Foley was swept back into office today for his fourth term by an indicated margin of more than 100,000 votes.

That his plurality might even be greater was indicated by the vote of 370 of Boston's 388 precincts, plus the vote from the city of Chelsea and the town of Winthrop, which gave him 204,814 as opposed to 101,899 for Malcolm E. Nichols, his Republican opponent and a former Republican mayor.

Completion of this term will give Foley 16 years at the same post. Both candidates campaigned vigorously, even though Foley's victory seemed always assured.

Each Word Adds To Joy

New Dealers Staggered By G. O. P. Landslide

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—A resurgent Republican party, hungry after eight successive years of defeat, broke into the political green pastures today and chased a great many of the New Dealers out.

The Democrats, it is true, retain control of both branches of Congress, but by greatly reduced majorities, and they still retain most of the state governments. In that sense, and that sense only, they may be said to have "won" the off-year election.

In every other sense they lost it.

WHAT G. O. P. WON

They lost eight seats in the Senate, possibly ten, depending upon Iowa and Indiana; they lost 60-odd seat sin the House, and 14 governorships changed hands with the Republicans making a net gain of 11.

The certain result will be to stiffen opposition to the New Deal and to President Roosevelt in the 76th Congress which convenes on January 3. By combining with recalcitrant and anti-New Deal Democrats, of whom there is a sizable bloc in the House, the Republicans are in a strategic position to thwart legislation, if not to initiate it.

The New Deal drubbing stretched from coast to coast, extending from New England through the Great Lakes states, the grain belt, the mountain states and to the Pacific.

GAINS IN SENATE

On the basis of late returns this forenoon, Democratic senators were unseated in Connecticut, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Oregon, while the Republicans re-elected their incumbents in Vermont, North Dakota and Pennsylvania.

On the basis of late returns this forenoon, Democratic senators were unseated in Kansas, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Wisconsin, New Jersey, South Dakota, Ohio and Oregon, while the Republicans re-elected their incumbents in Pennsylvania, Vermont and North Dakota.

A convincing cross-section—that.

The Democrats were as dazed today over the results as the Republicans were in those successive years of 1932-34-36, when successive and sensational Democratic victories all but obliberated the G. O. P. as a formidable political force.

Here in President Roosevelt's own New York, which he carried two years ago by more than a million votes, Governor Herbert H. Lehman, once described as his "good right arm," narrowly escaped defeat at the hands of youthful, hard-hitting Tom Dewey, 36-year-old district attorney.

Lehman squeezed through by some 76,000 votes, which is an

Biennial Sessions Ahead

Voters of Massachusetts appeared today to have approved biennial sessions of the state Legislature by a vote of almost two to one in 732 of 1794 precincts.

Supporters of the plan that would have the Legislature meet only every two years, instead of every year, as it does now, claimed a victory after more than 100 years' debate on the matter.

The 681 precinct returns on approval of the constitutional amendment were all from outside Boston.

The incomplete vote was: For, 312,864, as against 183,569.

Only a very heavy vote against the change from Boston appeared possible to change the result.

State's New First Lady Lives for 'Lev'--Home

By MARJORIE McBRIDE

The State's new First Lady is devoted to just two things—her husband and her home.

She's never made a public speech, her thoughts on politics don't always coincide with her husband's and the idea of being a notable doesn't impress or excite her.

She is proud for "Lev" and that is all.

Alice Saltonstall made this clear as she waited for last minute election returns far into the morning today in the Saltonstall Newton home.

LISTENED TO RETURNS

Earlier in the evening she gathered the now-elected governor's family around her. They sat together, listening to radio returns and tabulating results.

There was no alarm or undue confusion. Leverett Saltonstall's mother and sister were there. So was Mrs. Saltonstall's father.

Two of the children, young Billy and Susan, had been packed off to bed.

They hung anxiously over the banister upstairs asking for news, but Mrs. Saltonstall was firm.

"If daddy wins," she said, "I'll let you know. It is time you were asleep."

Long before the last ballots were counted Lev, Jr., and young Peter were ready to start for the victory parade downtown.

Peter, the younger, was enthusiastic. Lev, Jr., a Harvard student, was reticent.

FAITH IN DAD

"Course I'll be glad for dad if he wins," he grinned, "but I don't see what's so exciting. We've been through lots of elections in this house. Dad will win."

Alice Saltonstall, simply dressed in a black wool, with a Roman striped scarf at her throat, was equally sure. She patted her son's arm, but twisted a handkerchief nervously from time to time.

"When Lev ran for lieutenant governor," she said, "I had a premonition he wouldn't win. This time I'm sure he will, even Agawam Races Out; Downs O. K.

The dogs and horses will race in Suffolk and Bristol counties, election returns indicated today, but horse racing at Agawam and dog racing at Springfield went by the board as voters of Hampden County turned thumbs down.

With 414 out of 415 precincts in Suffolk County counted, the voters approved pari-mutuel betting on horse racing 226,904 to 64,992. On dog racing the vote was, Yes 189,415, and No, 81,657.

In Bristol county, 145 precincts out of 146 voting on horse racing gave Yes, 69,803, and No, 46,044. The returns on the dogs were, Yes, 64,578, and No, 48,596.

Horse racing was voted out in Hampden County by, No 24,959, and Yes 14,916.

Any thought of shifting racing plants to Franklin County, adjoining Hampden, was defeated when both horse and dog racing went down to defeat there.

In Franklin the vote on horses was, No, 8696 and Yes, 6729. The vote on dogs was, No, 9245 and Yes, 5849.

In Boston the total votes of 388 precincts for horses was: Yes, 203,780, and No, 58,215. For dogs: Yes, 168,726, and No, 71,399.

Curley Thanks Backers, Congratulates Winner

"And to Leverett Saltonstall I extend my congratulations."

James M. Curley in commenting on the election added:

"The Republican sweep throughout the country was reflected in Massachusetts in the vote received by my opponent.

"All factors considered, there is great consolation in the knowledge that nearly three-quarters of a million persons supported m ycandidacy. I express my gratitude to them."

Election Cheers Traders, Stocks Spurt $1 to $3

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Republican successes at the polls brought quick response from Wall Street today and stocks advanced sharply in one of the broadest buying waves of the year.

All groups shared in the gains as the financial district interpreted the election returns as a trend toward a more conservative relationship between government and business.

The rally, which carried active issues up $1 to $2 a share at the opening, was extended in another wave of buying in early afternoon as later returns told of mounting Republican strength in the new Congress. Bethlehem Steel was up around $3 a share, Chrysler was $2.25 a share higher, and United States Steel gained more than $2 a share.

While blocks of 5000 to 8000 shares changed hands in initial trading, the volume quieted down in mid-morning, then picked up again as the rally was extended. The ticker tape at times fell 5 minutes or so behind sales.

Commodities gained moderately.

Dowd Wins Easy Victory

Romping to the easiest kind of a victory, Acting Sheriff John F. Dowd became Suffolk County sheriff in fact today as returns indicated that he had defeated Timothy J. Murphy, his Republican rival, by well over 100,000.

He was leading by over that figure with returns from 370 out of 388 precincts in Boston proper, with greater leads being rolled up out in the county. The 370 precincts, plus Chelsea, Winthrop and Revere, gave him 209,465 as opposed to 93,179 for his Republican rival.

When Dowd, a city councilman for twelve years, won the Democratic nomination at the primaries Sheriff John A. Kelliher, whom he defeated, died as the returns came in. Dowd was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Saltonstall's Power Assured

Governor-elect Saltonstall will be favored through his term by Republican majorities in his executive council and both branches of the legislature, returns showed today.

Only one Democrat, the veteran Councillor Daniel H. Coakley of Brighton, survived the council vote.

With seven Republican councillors and a Republican lieutenant-governor, the governor-elect will be in a position for 8 to 1 votes on approval of his measures.

With 32 districts still unreported, Republicans had won 115 seats in the House of Representatives against 73 to which Democrats were elected.

THREE NEW DEMOCRATS

Twenty Republican senators were elected against nine Democrats in that branch with 11 districts yet to report.

Three of the Democrats in the Senate were newly elected to replace Boston Democrats who declined to run this year.

They are John E. Kerrigan, replacing Senator Edward C. Carroll of South Boston; Joseph L. Murphy, who replaced Senator Joseph Donahue of Dorchester, and Chester A. Dolan, who will occupy the seat of Senator James P. Henigan of Jamaica Plain.

Mason Sears of Dedham was elected to the Senate seat relinquished by Senate President Samuel H. Wragge, who retired to become elected sheriff of Norfolk county.

Miss Sybil Holmes of Brookline, only woman member of the Senate, was defeated after a spirited contest against Edward O'Hearn Mullowney, her Democratic opponent two years ago.

WINS CLOSE BATTLE

Clayton L. Havey of West Roxbury won the place in the Council vacated by Councillor Joseph B Grossman of Quincy, but only after a battle that appeared for a time to return John J. Sawtelle, Hyde Park, the winner.

Other new members are George E. Nelson, Worcester, who replaces Charles J. O'Connor, defeated in the Democratic primary, and Arthur R. Hastings, Springfield, in place of Edward T. Collins, unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant-governor.

O'Connor and Collins were Democratic members while Nelson and Hastings are Republicans.

Republicans Lead In Oregon Voting

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 9 (AP)—An avalanche of Republican votes indicated almost complete defeat for the New Deal in Oregon today.

Charles A. Sprague, Republican nominee for governor, took a lead of 27,431 over Henry L. Hess, Democrat endorsed by some high New Deal officials.

In the U. S. Senate race, Rufus C. Holman, Republican state treasurer, showed surprising strength in polling 77,300 votes against 53,841 for Robert Miller, Democrat.

New Governor Visits American

Governor-elect Leverett Saltonstall reached his home in Chestnut Hill road, Newton, well into the 'wee hours today after a two-hour struggle to free himself from admirers in downtown Boston.

Before he headed for his Newton home he paid a visit to the Boston Evening American office and evinced a deep interest in "how the boys were going" in other sections of the country.

He expressed satisfaction as he learned that the Republican party had succeeded in other states as well as he had done here.

"These reports certainly show there is a definite trend toward a return of the Republican party to power in 1940," he said while looking over the despatches.

The Governor-elect congratulated John A. Malley, managing editor of the Hearst newspapers in Boston, for the fair manner in which details of the campaign were reported to the public.

The governor-elect revealed that he was at first hesitant about attending his victory reception downstown, recalling that he made the trip two years ago only to find he had been defeated by Francis E. Kelly in the race for lieutenant governor.

His first stop on the victory tour was at Republican headquarters, 6 Beacon street. He personally thanked each worker. His next stop was at the Parker House for a reception in the ballroom to him, Mrs. Saltonstall, his son, Leverett, Jr., and Daniel Lynch, his secretary.

He also spoke over three radio stations to send messages of thanks to his supporters.

Arriving at his home after 3 a. m. today he served notice that he would not be disturbed until he had a good rest.

Quins' Tonsils Clipped, Their Condition 'Fine'

CALLONDER, Ont., Nov. 9 (Canadian Press)—The Dionne quintuplets today came through "in fine condition" a series of operations for the removal of tonsils and adenoids.

The parents of the world's most famous babies had stood by in readiness to provide blood transfusions in the event of emergency.

Marie was the first to emerge from the improvised operating room in the nursery, where physicians headed by Dr. D. E. S. Wishart, Toronto specialist, performed the operations, which started at 9 a. m.

HALF HOUR ON TABLE

Each operation took about a half hour. Annette was second, Emilie third, Yvonne fourth, and Cecile last.

The children were said to have been given a general anaesthetic.

The five girls were heard laughing and talking before the operations, apparently aware of the unusual activity around the nursery. They missed breakfast, and probably won't be given anything to eat until tonight, when they may have liquids.

With Doctors Wishart and Dafoe were Dr. Alan Brown, another Toronto specialist; Dr. S. H. Robson, chief anaesthetist, Dr. J. C. McReary and two nurses.

MASS FOR CHILDREN

The Rev. Victor Pilon, a priest in nearby Corbeil, officiated at an early mass at which villagers prayed for the children.

Dr. Brown had reported that the children's tonsils "are in a chronic state of inflammation, which already accounts for enlargement of their cervical glands." He added that a spreading infection might result in "even a severe generalized infection with death."

Dr. Brown's report prompted the guardians of the quintuplets to agree last weekend to immediate operations.

Dr. Dafoe said he and Dr. Brown were in agreement "that we cannot assume any further responsibility for them unless the tonsils and adenoids are removed at once."

BUCKLEY LOSES ABINGTON

Thomas H. Buckley, candidate for re-election as state auditor lost his home town of Abington to his Republican opponent, Russell A. Wood of Cambridge. Wood got 1473 votes, Buckley only 1345.

Alcatraz, the 'Hot Rock'

By P. F. REED

Copyright, 1938, by Hearst Publications, Inc.

When the Rock's "overzealous discipline" starts working on a con's "substandard constitution" there's bound to be a mess, and in many cases it's a bloody mess.

That's because the con just can't stand the Rock any longer and begins figuring out ways to beat it and finally hits upon suicide as the only way.

Dozens of cons have tried to do their time [illegible] one has actually made it and I'll tell you about him first.

I got to know Sailor Burke pretty well. He was doing 27 years for murder on the high seas, and he made up his mind early that no man, certainly not the sailor could ever do that much time in THAT stir.

The sailor had been kicked around all his life, and didn't know much, so he began asking for information. He wanted to know the best way of doing a job of suicide—the quickest, and the least painful, and the surest that could be done with the limited materials at hand.

Those he talked to—they weren't many, because the sailor thought the whole stir was down on him because he had bumped off a guy—thought he was ribbing; they figured that a gee who is going to go the Dutch route isn't going to go any talking about it.

They still thought he was ribbing when he got himself a ten-foot length of rope that had come into the meat shop where the sailor was working, in a load of tires. The sailor showed that rope around for weeks, trying to find out if it was strong enough to do the trick, and [illegible] would stretch or break his neck, and how much it was going to hurt.

Finally he ditched the rope and doped out a better way. He sprung it to his partner in the mat shop and the partner didn't believe it. It was like this:

The sailor was hauling sidewalls of old tires up to the butcher's block, where his partner was hacking them into two-foot lengths with a sharp hatchet. The sailor eyed that hatchet and then asked his partner:

"You suppose that thing is sharp enough to take off a man's head?"

The other con, still lacking away and thinking nothing of it, said sure, and then blinked a couple of times when the sailor went on:

"Well, this is too much of a load for me. I can't make it. I'm going to do my time in a hurry."

The sailor's partner, thinking he was calling a bluff, waved the hatchet and said:

All right, you crazy herring-choker, if you want your block chopped off, put it down here and I'll take it off for you."

FOUND DEAD IN CELL

The sailor very quietly and deliberately, rolled down his shirt collar, and then spread his jacket over the butcher's block, and laid his head on it, and said:

"O. K.—let her go. Make it a clean job."

When nothing happened, the sailor said:

"Come on—let her go. I want to get it over with."

His partner cussed him out for a dingbat, and told him he'd be damned if he was going to pile up any more time just to make the sailor's time go faster. The sailor got sore—so sore that he didn't talk to his partner again for weeks.

And the cons who thought the sailor was fooling changed their minds a little later. Somebody had told him just where to find the jugular vein and the sailor had gone looking for it with a broken end of a pencil sharpener. He didn't go deep enough, and the wound healed up after a couple of weeks in [illegible] the hospital.

But the next time he made it. He used a razor blade and he went for a deep. They found him dead on the floor, leaning over a bowl that was just about filled with [illegible]

ODD BURIAL SUIT

When the cons talked about it it wasn't the manner of his suicide or the fact that a con could get his self bleeding to death with a razor blade that made them sore. It was the way they buried the poor sailor. They buried him in a "civvies" suit, a suit of clothes that had been made in the prison [illegible] after a mixup of [illegible]

But the coat was black and had [illegible] while the one getting was [illegible] and the other [illegible]

There were two dozen suits made up that way, and we heard that the rest of them went up to Maine's island and were given to [illegible]

Another con who made it but not until he got off the Rock—was John Stadig, the college-boy counterfeiter, who built himself up as a pretty good escape artist. On his last try he jumped off a moving train over across the bay, and hid out for ten days, and when they found him he told the newspaper boys:

"I've been looking for toadstools. If I'd found any, they'd never be taking me back to the Rock. I'd rather die than go back there. It's a hell hole."

CUTS LARGE VEIN

He wasn't fooling. He tried to die just a week or so after they brought him back. He had the cell next to me and around 7:30 one night, right after supper time, he asked me for something to read. As I got the [illegible] I passed him a magazine. Two hours later he passed it back.

At 4 the next morning, a guard found him from a cord his pillow was soaked with blood and it had soaked through the thin mattress and was dripping on the floor.

ELECTRIC SHOCK FAILS

He hadn't let a peep out of him all night. And, from what he told me after I found out just how far he'd gone to avoid being caught. At shave-time, before they took his blade away, he had cut into a big vein on his arm. Then, he had made a tourniquet out of a knotted handkerchief and applied it. He had borrowed my magazine, and had given it back, and had sat around until lights out at 9:30. Then he had climbed into bed and had pulled off the tourniquet and

Bradford Tops Carroll, 2 to 1

Robert F. Bradford, 35, Republican candidate for district attorney in Middlesex County, today was a victor by a 2 to 1 majority over Joseph V. Carroll, Democrat.

With 47 out of 54 cities and towns complete, Bradford was leading Carroll, 153,922 to 85,516.

Bradford, who first ousted District Attorney Warren L. Bishop in the primaries, is ninth in line from Governor William Bradford, first chief executive of the colonies.

Suave, witty and resourceful, young Bradford—just 35—first made his entrance into politics seven years ago at the State House as secretary for Governor Ely.

"Just another one of those Harvard boys," was an early opinion of hardened Beacon Hill politicians who soon had cause to eat their words.

They found the governor's secretary an able, two-fisted executive, who was ready for a fun or a fight. They learned he was adept at both and his popularity grew.

At Harvard, Bradford was a star oarsman, rowing for Crimson crews for four years. From college, he went to Harvard Law School and after admittance to the bar entered the offices of the law firm of Ropes, Gray, Boyden & Perkins. He was married the year he was graduated from law school and has three children, Rebecca, 11, Ann, 10, and Robert, 23 months.

Congressional Slate of State Unchanged

Massachusetts will have the same representation in Congress that it has had for the past two years, with 10 Republicans and five Democrats retaining their congressional seats.

Close contests were recorded in several of the districts, however.

Congressman Joseph E. Casey of Clinton (D.) had a hard race against J. Walton Tuttle (R.) of Framingham, and Congressman Robert Luce of Waltham was given a battle by Thomas H. Eliot of Cambridge, strong New Dealer and grandson of the late President Eliot of Harvard.

Those who had little trouble in obtaining re-election were Allen T. Treadway (R.) of Stockbridge, Richard Wigglesworth (R.) of Milton, Charles R. Clason (R.) of Springfield, Pehr G. Holmes (R.) of Worcester, Edith Nourse (R.) of Lowell; George J. Bates (R.) of Salem, Thomas A. Flaherty (D.) of Boston; George Holden Tinkham (R.) of Boston, John W. 3 Cities Vote 'No' on Plan E

Bitterly contested in Cambridge, Quincy and Northampton, the Plan E city manager form of municipal government seemed doomed to defeat in all three communities today.

It was definitely beaten in Northampton where No votes in the referendum totalled 4733 to 3499 Yeses.

In Quincy returns from 27 of 30 precincts showed 13,647 No votes to 9763 Yeses.

A possible recount loomed in Cambridge. Complete returns gave 21,432 No votes to 20,188 Yeses.

NEVER SLEEP ON AN UPSET STOMACH

Alkalize While You Sleep—Feel Great Next Day

To relieve the effects of over-indulgence — escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day — do this: Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water — AT BEDTIME.

While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel like a million.

Then — when you wake — take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

That is one of the quickest, simplest, easiest ways to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

But — when you buy, make sure you get the Real Article. Never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone — always ask for "Phillips'" Milk of Magnesia.

G.O.P. Sweeps Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9 (AP)—Republicans rode a landslide back to power today in Pennsylvania.

Leads of 270,000 to 350,000 — greater than their most optimistic party leaders had predicted — elected Republicans as United States senator, governor, lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs.

Democrats lost their majority in the state legislature and were left with only a narrow margin of control in Pennsylvania's 34 man congressional delegation.

DAVIS HOLDS SEAT

Governor George H. Earle who swept into office in the New Deal free for all four years ago, carried, lost by many votes too light to win the Senate seat held by the silver-haired Republican veteran, James J. Davis.

From out of the hard coal fields, Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. James drove his way to the governorship over the Democratic candidate Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer who was pledged to carry on the Earle program.

With only scattered precincts unreported the vote was:

For Governor—(7599 of 8078 election districts) Judge James, 1,752,524; Jones, 1,627,935.

GAINS IN CONGRESS

For United States Senator—(7599 of 8078 election districts) Senator Davis, 1,760,752; Governor Earle, 1,588,550.

That vote and the Republican gains in Congress held national significance. The Keystone State was an important New Deal battle front. Some observers said the outcome indicated how the states 36 Electoral College votes might be cast in the 1940 presidential election.

Democrats Lead In California; $30 Plan Trails

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9 (AP)—California Democratic votes swept Sheridan Downey and Culbert Olson far ahead today in the races for senator and governor respectively, but apparently tossed aside a scrip pension proposal which Downey vigorously championed.

Mounting returns, including complete figures from San Francisco increased the leads of both candidates but the Republican managers made no concessions of defeat.

Returns from 8428 of 12[illegible] precincts in the state gave Downey, who was supported by President Roosevelt, 485,965 votes to 443,700 for Phillip Bancroft. Both candidates who condemned the pension proposal.

The Democratic party appeared headed toward its first gubernatorial victory in 44 years. Returns from 8428 precincts gave Olson 688,171 and Frank F. Merriam Republican governor, 594,[illegible].

Gov. Merriam also condemned the pension proposal on which Olson for the most part kept silent.

In 7768 precincts the scrip proposal had 291,65[illegible] favorable votes and 426,578 unfavorable. Los Angeles County, where the idea originated, rejected the plan in all complete returns.

Triple Play

Making his political debut in Cohasset, Kendall P. Bates, a broker, won election to three offices yesterday.

His triple victory gained him the jobs of selectman, assessor and board of public welfare member. In each of those positions, he will succeed the late Eugene F. Tower.

Murphy Loses In Michigan

DETROIT, Nov. 9 (AP)—Frank Murphy, Michigan's New Deal governor, was unseated in Tuesday's election by Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican, who was the state's chief executive in 1935 and 1936.

Returns from 2851 out of 3583 precincts gave Fitzgerald 658,665 votes and Murphy 646,[illegible].

In the race for the U. S. Senate seat [illegible] Murphy served as judge and governor, [illegible] defeated Frank [illegible] by a [illegible] majority [illegible] enough to change the result.

"In view of the large and surprising upstate vote, we must concede defeat," said Harry H. Mead, Murphy's campaign manager.

He said the governor may [illegible] a formal statement later in the day.

GOVERNOR DEJECTED

The governor had indicated during the night he expected defeat and was plainly dejected. However, a telephone call from President Roosevelt erased the governor's fear before the outcome became final.

It was the first defeat for Murphy in politics. He resigned as governor [illegible] to campaign successfully for governor of Michigan in the 1936 Democratic sweep.

Murphy's [illegible] labor [illegible] during the automobile sit-down strikes of 1937 were criticized consistently by Fitzgerald during the campaign. Fitzgerald also advocated repudiation of what he called the Little New Deal in Michigan.

9 G. O. P. CONGRESSMEN

President Roosevelt had endorsed Murphy and indicated he considered the Michigan gubernatorial contest of special significance.

Riding to victory with Fitzgerald were the nine Michigan Republican Congressmen. In addition the Republicans will almost certainly send William W. Blackney, Democratic Representative from the Sixth district, to defeat.

Returns from the other seven districts represented by Democrats were not sufficiently complete to show the probable outcome.

Michigan was a Republican stronghold for decades but in the last few years it elected Democratic governors twice.

LaFollette's Defeat Dooms His 3d Party

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 9 (AP)—The name La Follette has lost its magic as a Republican defeated Governor Philip F. La Follette for reelection yesterday, the first time in 48 years Wisconsin has turned down the family in a general election.

Crashing with his hopes of being the state's first four-term chief executive went his 1940 presidential stock.

Julius P. Heil, wealthy 48-year-old Milwaukee manufacturer, won the gubernatorial race piling up a vote which incomplete returns indicated would top La Follette's by approximately 100,000.

The state also rejected the New Deal as represented by U. S. Senator F. Ryan Duffy. Asking reelection on a record as an outright Roosevelt man, Duffy ran a bad third, losing to Alexander Wiley, Republican by more than [illegible].

Lieut. Gov. Herman L. Ekern, Progressive, finished second, but far behind.

Returns from 2679 precincts of 3005 for governor gave:

La Follette (Prog.), 294,558; Harry Bolens (D.), 66,424, Heil (R.), 457,679.

In the U. S. Senate race, 2676 precincts showed:

Ekern (Prog.), 209,849; Duffy (D.), 190,254; Wiley (R.), 373,849; John B. Chapple (Ind. R.), 4740.

Labor 'Sorry' Curley Lost

[illegible] of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor [illegible] a statement regretting [illegible] defeat [illegible] Democratic [illegible] Curley.

He added:

"We place responsibility for the defeat on such high office holders of his own party who refused to endorse him. That may be remembered in future campaigns."

Secretary Treasurer Taylor said he hoped Leverett Saltonstall would be fair to labor and a liberal, but he also said most of Saltonstall's campaign [illegible].

Lehman Victory Aids Deal in '40

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt's native New York—which will be of the greatest strategic importance in the 1940 presidential year—remained Democratic in maor election contests, today's returns show.

Subsequent, complete returns showed Gov Herbert H Lehman rested well over his Republican opponent, Thomas E Dewey by with a penalty so small that [illegible] might predict the outcome.

With only 17 of 9051 election districts in the state missing, the governor had a lead of a little more than 70,000 votes. The figures were Lehman 2,481,491, Dewey 2,411,421.

Senator Robert F Wagner of the labor and bearing his name adjusted safe, as was Rep James M Mead for the other New York senatorial seat.

Gov Lehman

A wide swath by the death of Senator Royal S Copeland.

The President strongly and publicly appeared for Lehman, for Wagner and for Mead and his prestige was directly involved.

The Republicans took control of the state senate a circumstance which made impotent their domination of the governorship, which already controlled the state assembly.

The two seats for representative at large apparently won by Democrats one of whom was the incumbent Caroline O'Day, Mrs Franklin D Roosevelt's close friend.

Dewey gave Lehman such a run as he never had known in his three previous gubernatorial campaigns. During the night it was a see-saw affair with the lead alternating frequently.

Dewey, who will carry on his present office as Manhattan district attorney, ran vastly ahead of the rest of the Republican ticket. He conceded his defeat in a telegram of congratulation in which he said: "I wish you every success and happiness."

G.O.P. in Sweep Of So. Dakota

SIOUX FALLS, S D Nov 9 (AP) A sweeping Republican victory which ousted Democrats from all state offices except governorship and two congressional seats, was indicated [illegible] of South Dakota's returns [illegible] years ago by Democrats, Senator W J Bulow elected in contest to keep the governorship of Tom Berry [illegible] Democrat, led Berry 49,614.

Owen Pasco, [illegible] Sioux Falls Republican, defeated Democrat Leo Sieglor who had [illegible] to regain of the entire [illegible] Republican Congressmen [illegible] Democrats.

Chester Gross, Republican, defeated A Yankton judge in [illegible] who was defeated two years ago by Democrat Karl Mundt.

MUST BUILD ANEW

Again, voters indicated in the flood-stricken areas that Curley's aim for federal funds to finance huge flood control projects would not be forthcoming from the Roosevelt administration at Washington.

Most surprising to the Democratic leaders was the manner in which Attorney General Dever and State Auditor Buckley were tossed about on the Republican wave.

Dever and Buckley were both considered potential candidates for governor in 1940, while Curley had high hopes of conducting an administration that would make him sure fire in 1940 for the United States Senate when the term of Senator David I. Walsh runs out.

In view of the complete defeat the party faces a difficult task if leaders hope to build all over and regain Beacon Hill two years from now.

Saltonstall Thanks All

Leverett Saltonstall issued the following statement after receiving election returns at his Newton home:

"It is with a heart filled with gratitude that I thank the legion of voters of Massachusetts—Republican, Democratic and Independent—for my election as Governor.

"If our form of government is to endure there must be honest service in the conduct of public affairs. I promised you a liberal, progressive program. This I will give you.

"I shall assume the duties and responsibilities of the office of Governor with deep humility and will do everything within my power to prove worthy of the trust and confidence you have placed in me."

New Governor Real Plugger

By FRED PERKINS

When Leverett Saltonstall went out for the Harvard hockey team, they told him he had only two shortcomings, namely:

He couldn't skate and he didn't know the game.

Three years later, however, your Saltonstall was a varsity hockey regular, and it was a goal he scored which beat "unbeatable" Princeton, that season!

How did experts fight have ... on a tip from Saltonstall's athletic record. But they did it.

They said he'd make a good candidate for governor — only, he couldn't campaign and wasn't good shucks as a public vote getter.

LESSON FOR "EXPERTS"

So today ... the experts had to ... them was the first time ... were ... of ... voters were ... had ... to take ... seriously ... that boy from Yonker ... of Leverett Saltonstall.

Maybe he stirred that jaw ... in babyhood, chewing on the ... silver spoon which was ... his mouth at birth.

The silver spoon and what it stood for were things Saltonstall had to live down in politics.

His own friends and close associates, of course, discovered years ago that Lev Saltonstall was "the ... kind."

They soon learned to take in stride, as he did, his Saltonstall family background, his Harvard affiliations, his wealth and social position.

They kept telling an ever-widening circle of hearers that Lev Saltonstall was a plugger, that his grin might not keep Clark Gable awake nights with envy but it had a likeable and persuasive magnetism.

WAS BUCK PRIVATE

The general public on the other hand, had to get acquainted with Leverett Saltonstall the slow way.

Voters at large were obliged to find out for themselves that Saltonstall had quit college to enlist in the United States Army as a buck private, had won his commission from the ranks, and had gone overseas with a field artillery regiment.

The public learned faster, later, about Saltonstall, when he got into the Legislature.

It "leaked out" that he was a pretty expert lawyer, that he knew more about finance than just how to write checks.

During his eight years as speaker of the House, his allies—and opponents—became agreed on one point.

Lev Saltonstall was a fellow who never knew when he was licked. He was right in there swinging, until the final gong rang.

NO GLASS IN THAT JAW

Now was there any glass in that ... Yankee jaw of his.

He could take it as well as dish it out.

He took it—with never a squawk—when Francis E. Kelly beat him for lieutenant governor in 1936.

A good loser, he's a good winner, too.

Nor will he be the first Governor ... Saltonstall in New England history.

Gordon Saltonstall, born at Haverhill in 1666 and graduated from Harvard in 1684, went to New London, Ct., as minister of the ... congregational church there and subsequently succeeded Governor Winthrop as Connecticut's chief executive.

... New England Saltonstall was Sir Richard, one of the ... of the settlement of Watertown in 1630.

Leverett Saltonstall should be ... 41st of May ... ancestors in Jamaica ... was born in Chester, Pa., ... 46 years ago.

He married Alice Wesselhoeft, ... and ... daughter ... of Dr. William P. Wesselhoeft, for ... years chief of staff of ... Memorial hospitals.

The Leverett Saltonstalls have five children. Leverett, Jr., 21; ... 18; Peter T., William H. 3rd and Susan, 4.

Chief hobby of Governor-elect, Sons ... Saltonstall is, of all things, farming.

As ... he sweats at it!

Lodge Praises Saltonstall

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., sent the following telegram of congratulation to Gov.-elect Leverett Saltonstall:

"I wish to extend my congratulations to you and above all to impress upon you the public service which you have undertaken. The suffrage of all the parties named you as the next Governor of this Commonwealth on your platform of honest and progressive government.

"You now face the challenge of giving practical effect to that program. This is a sober thought. You are, to be sure, clearly entitled to the inspiration and satisfaction which comes from such a significant victory. But knowing you, I am sure you will regard it as an occasion of solemn dedication rather than unbridled rejoicing.

"Please call upon me for any service I can render the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and your administration."

Gov. Hurley Predicted It

Governor Hurley's comment on the results of the election was as follows:

"It is unfortunate that our party today sustained its first defeat in eight years. Yet the result was predicted by me in a radio broadcast two months ago and also by other Democratic leaders, among whom was Postmaster-General James A. Farley, who said:

"'The Democratic nomination is not worth a five-cent piece to anyone except Governor Hurley.'

"I am confident that under proper leadership the Democratic party will be returned to power at the next general election, for the reason that under proper leadership the Democratic party is the party of the plain people.

"Like all good citizens, I extend my sincere congratulations to Governor-elect Saltonstall."

Early Life of Cahill One of Many Hardships

Lieutenant Governor-elect Horace T. Cahill, 44, an ex-pupil son of Massachusetts, came here as a fatherless boy of six years from New York's East Side.

His road to post-oral success was traversed the hard way with long hours of work at every conceivable kind of job to support his widowed mother and two sisters.

In his early years the Scotch lad moved in the tenement district of the South End and Roxbury, at one time in Jim Curley's home ward.

He worked his way through English High School, Tufts College and Northeastern Law School, being admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1921. Despite long hours of study he still had time for athletics.

At English, he was interscholastic hurdling champion, member of a national championship relay team and later a lightweight college wrestling champion.

He married Miss Josephine Gates, former head nurse to Dr. Harvey Cushing, and went to live in Braintree. He became selectman of that town in 1926 and two years later was sent to the House, where he has been ever since. He became speaker two years ago.

Cahill's mother lives in the Back Bay. His sisters, both now married, live in Braintree and California.

"Do you know," she confided, "I've often thought that if every voter could only know Lev as I and the children know him, they'd realize what a marvelous public servant he will make. He's always had just one major interest to serve the public."

14 States Go Republican

extremely tight fit in a vote of more than 4,000,000.

WAGNER, MEAD WIN

He ran about a half million votes behind the state and Democratic national ticket this year. Robert F. Wagner the author of much New Deal legislation, and James M. Mead, another ardent New Dealer, who won the unexpired term of the late Senator Royal S. Copeland.

Deasey, although losing, was by no means obliterated as a political factor nor as future presidential timber. He swept upstate New York as no candidate ever swept it before, coming down to the Bronx county line with a majority of 600,000. These he ran into a 647,000 majority which the Democratic machine of the greater city gave Lehman and the result was he missed victory by an eyelash.

From a practical standpoint, the governorships which the Republicans won mean more to the party in terms of 1940 than their notable gains in Congress.

Back in power in the states, possessed of patronage and the machinery, the Republicans can now start organizing at the grassroots for the presidential election.

DEALS ALLIE 1 1088.

The Democrats retain New York, Illinois, California, Indiana among the larger states, but they have lost Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, and they lost their "allies" as well in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

In Wisconsin, Governor Phil La Follette, seeking his fourth term as the head of his own independent Progressive party, proved to be the pitcher that went to the well once too often. He was defeated by Julius P. Heil, Milwaukee industrialist and regular Republican.

Minnesota, the home of Governor Harold E. Stassen, Republican wonder boy, and Floyd B. Olson, late Democratic dictator who died in the State House, Harold Stassen, Republican at times and regular Republican at others, was elected governor over Governor Elmer A. Benson, in whose behalf Mr. Roosevelt indited a telegram of praise last week.

The results in Minnesota and Wisconsin would seem to dispose of any serious third party threats for 1940. Both the Progressives and the Farmer-Laborites, between whom there was a close affinity are now out of office, save for a few senators and congressmen. Regular Republicans take their places.

ROOSEVELT STUDIES VOTE

The Democratic high command was apparently still too dazed this morning to offer any explanation for the sweeping reverses which the party suffered. Some Republican gains had been expected and conceded, but nothing like what occurred.

President Roosevelt scanned the returns in the library of his Hudson river estate until an early hour this morning. He sent a few telegrams of congratulation to successful Democratic candidates, and then retired without comment. He will return to Washington tomorrow to face an entirely new political situation, and a desk full of problems.

The usually genial Jim Farley, national chairman and postmaster general also retired without comment, other than to make a brief statement congratulating Governor Lehman and the New York state ticket on the "victory."

FARLEY IS GLOOMY

The gloom about Farley's headquarters was apparent early in the evening as the first returns from New England and the Midwest began to forecast what was happening. Jim went to a barber shop to escape questioners, and later locked himself in a hotel room to avoid callers. About his only consolation in New York was the victory of Wagner and Mead and the magnificent way in which the organization delivered for Lehman in the greater city.

The Republicans gleefully manufactured some justification for the results, considered no less a blow to Mr. Roosevelt's personal prestige, and in a way a vindication of sympathy for further [illegible] from a greater blow [illegible] in New York.

The defeat of Governor Murphy in Michigan, a stinging personal blow to the President, in which the party leader went to the assistance of Murphy, once with a statement condemning the Dies un-American committee for meeting the red headed Governor again on the radio with a defense of Murphy's handing of the sit down strikes a year ago.

POST FOR MURPHY?

The belief prevails in informed circles that Mr. Roosevelt will find a way to keep Murphy in public service. It may be on the supreme court bench. Mr. Roosevelt has never filled the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Cardozo.

Not the least of the Republican elation and satisfaction over Tuesday's outcome is the fact that there has now been washed upon their beach to the tide some presidential timber.

For the most part, the Republican victories were won by younger men—Robert A. Taft in Ohio, son of the late president, and Governor Saltonstall in Massachusetts, who stamped ex-Governor Curley's effort at a political comeback. Governor Stassen in Minnesota; youngish Wm. H. Vanderbilt, who led the Republican victory in the Empire state has experienced in John A. Danaher in Connecticut, who unhorsed Senator Maloney, Democrat.

It is most in part, at least, the party cry for new faces and younger leadership.

At all events the New Deal has experienced its first real setback. They are now brought to the sober realization that if they are to be successful in the future they must close ranks, stop the intra-party dissension, the "purging" and quarrelling, and regain a measure of harmony.

How Nation Voted on Big Offices

DEAL SWEEPS N. Y.

NEW YORK — Governor H. H. Lehman barely reelected by 76,000 votes over Republican "Basket Buster" Thomas E. Dewey.

Senators Wagner and Mead Democrats elected by half million.

Representative John J. O'Connor chairman of the powerful rules committee of the House permanently "purged" James H. Fay, Democrat elected to his seat.

MASSACHUSETTS — Ex-Governor James M. Curley, Democrat, defeated by Republican Leverett Saltonstall in Curley's second attempt at a political comeback.

RHODE ISLAND — A new and famous name enters American politics. William H. Vanderbilt, of The Vanderbilts, elected governor in the greatest Republican victory Little Rhody has witnessed in twenty years.

DEALER PARTS OUT

PENNSYLVANIA — Republicans capture the Keystone state after two years of New Dealing at Harrisburg electing Senator James F. (Puddler Jim) Davis and putting Judge Arthur H. James in the governor's chair.

NEW JERSEY — Warren W. Barbour, Republican, former amateur heavyweight boxing champion, stages successful comeback, defeating Mayor Frank Hague's candidate, William H. J. Ely.

OHIO — Another famous name is re-entered in American politics. Robert A. Taft, son of the former President, elected senator. John W. Bricker completes Republican picture by gaining governorship.

KANSAS — Returns to the Republican fold by electing ex-Governor Clyde M. Reed over Senator George McGill.

LA FOLLETTES LOSE OUT

MINNESOTA — The youngest governor elected, 31-year-old Harold Stassen, Republican Farmer-Laborites unhorsed.

WISCONSIN — LaFollette hold broken. Regular Republicans elect Julius P. Heil governor and Alexander Wiley as senator.

MICHIGAN — The foremost New Dealer among the governors, Frank Murphy, defeated by the man he defeated two years ago, Frank D. Fitzgerald.

INDIANA — Considered heavily Democratic, springs surprise when Raymond Willis, country newspaper publisher, almost defeats Senator Frank Van Nuys.

IOWA — Showed its ticket-splitting propensities by ousting Democratic Governor Nels Kraschel and installing George A. Wilson, and rejecting ex-Republican keynoter, ex-Senator "Silver Dick" Dickinson, in his attempted comeback.

ILLINOIS STILL DEALING

ILLINOIS — Remains steadfast to New Deal, electing Scott Lucas to Senate over Dick Lyons.

NEW HAMPSHIRE — A new face in the Senate, Republican Charles Tobey, unseated Senator Fred Brown, one-time catcher for the Boston Braves.

IDAHO — The "other" Senator apparently is to be D. Worth Clark, a youngish Democrat. "The" Senator from Idaho is William E. Borah.

CALIFORNIA — Elects Culbert Olson the first Democratic governor in 40 years. Sheridan Downey replaces William G. McAdoo in Senate. "Ham and eggs" pension plan ($30 every Thursday) defeated.

MISSOURI — Senator Bennett Champ Clark keeps in the Democratic presidential (1940) running by coasting to easy re-election.

KENTUCKY — Senator "Dear Alben" Barkley, majority leader, easily re-elected.

Bay State Executives for 193

LT.-GOV.—HORACE T. CAHILL

SEC'Y OF STATE—F. W. COOK

TREASURER—WILLIAM F. HURLEY

AUDI

Hello, Massachusetts! New Governor Leverett Saltonstall waves happy greeting to Bay State citizens after remarkable Republican victory at polls. He piled up a huge lead over former Governor Curley.

Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever
LONE DEMOCRAT IN SPECTACULAR

Victory of Leverett Saltonstall over former Governor James M. Curley was hailed at headquarters at Beacon street, where governor-elect is shown pushing through jubilant crowd, receiving cheers and congratulations for his decisive triumph. With a smile and a wave of the hand, the Republican party leader of Massachusetts thanks the workers for their efforts in his behalf.

Congratulations pour in on Robert A. Taft after he wins Ohio senatorial battle from incumbent, Robert J. Bulkley. Victory is considered one of election day's sharpest rebuffs to New Deal.

The Public [illegible] . . . so might Governor-elect William H. Vanderbilt be saying as he poses with Mrs. Vanderbilt after winning in Rhode Island. He defeated the Democratic candidate, Governor Robert Quinn.

Victory Conceded—Governor-elect Frank D. Fitzgerald reads wire from Governor Frank Murphy after Michigan anti New Deal landslide swept the Democrat out of office and put the Republican in. Murphy wished him luck.

New York Victor—Governor and Mrs. Herbert H. Lehman respond to cheering crowds after he wins re-election in New York, beating Thomas E. Dewey by some 70,000 votes.

AMERICAN LEADERSHIP

The Editor Says: The people of Massachusetts have spoken in their own interest and Leverett Saltonstall is their Governor-Elect.

For more than five years they waited for New Deal leadership to do something about the problems of unemployment and economic distress.

Doomed to disappointment, they saw in Tuesday's referendum an opportunity for AMERICAN LEADERSHIP.

That explains Mr. Saltonstall's victory.

Our people were willing to have billions of dollars raised by taxes and borrowed against the future and SPENT, providing jobless people could thereby be taken off the dole and put to work, and providing business and industry could thereby be enabled to feed and clothe the nation at reasonable profit.

But the UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM is still here, quite as formidable as ever.

And the INDUSTRIAL PROBLEM is still here, more formidable than ever.

Consequently, Massachusetts rebels and creates for herself a New Deal from the New Deal.

James Michael Curley conducted an aggressive campaign, maintaining the dignity that befits a former governor, at all times observing commendable propriety.

BUT, IN THE FACE OF THE OVERWHELMING REVOLT AGAINST THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND THE NEW DEAL, HE WAS HELPLESS.

James Michael Curley's misfortune would have been any Democratic gubernatorial nominee's misfortune.

No candidate bearing the party's label and seeking the State's highest office could have resisted the avalanche of opposition that swamped the system, rather than the individual.

MR. SALTONSTALL, a man of strong character and proven honesty, has pledged himself to an administration free from the blighting paralysis of excessive taxation, wasteful spending and crackpot class discrimination.

We confidently believe Mr. Saltonstall will give us that kind of government.

We know he appreciates the responsibilities which go with the great honor the electorate has conferred upon him.

We are, therefore, sure that Bay State government under him will be solidly anchored on the tried and true American principles of real democracy.

The bitterness of the campaign was buried with the closing of the polls last night, and it should STAY BURIED.

This is not exclusively Mr. Saltonstall's desire. It is EVERYBODY'S DEMAND.

WHAT WE NEED and must have now is EFFECTIVE CO-OPERATION that presupposes a spirit of humility on all sides.

There must be a willingness on the part of our elected officials to listen to their counsels on matters affecting business and employment. PRACTICAL advisors of known experience and unquestioned competence.

On the part of both employers and employes, there must be a willingness to sacrifice immediate selfish interest in order to promote the welfare of the State and Nation.

Co-operation entails an obligation on the part of all men and all parties to be broad-minded enough to recognize that under our modern technology what is best for the State and Nation is at the same time best for all men and all parties.

Massachusetts needs co-operation beyond all else, but it requires not merely the word "co-operation," but the reality which underlies the phrase.

The living standards of all us depend, as Mr. Saltonstall has truthfully said, on INTELLIGENT WORKING TOGETHER BY BOTH PARTIES AND BY LABOR, INDUSTRY, AGRICULTURE and GOVERNMENT.

Tunes Selected For Air Raid

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IN ITS BOMB SHELTER deep down in the earth, Zurich, Switzerland, has installed not only food, beds and medical supplies but a phonograph with a stock of records which play "comforting melodies." Just what would be comforting, and to whom and to what degree, under such circumstances, would be an interesting study.

Anything about the balmy air of blossom time would be out because of its unhappy suggestion.

The old question of "what single book would you take to a desert island" may be replaced by what single record would you take to a bomb cellar? The cynic would choose, of course, "Why Was I Born?" And if this keeps up, one may only say "Queen Sabe."

The first words spoken by Edison's wax cylinder phonograph or "talking machine" as it was then, were, "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy." That first record might be more "comforting" to people in a bomb cellar than any of the jitterbug, jeepers and shag tunes which now come along, 50 years later.

IN FACT, aside from the epic hymns of religious consolation, there are few more comforting words in our language. Like St. Paul, "seeing through a glass darkly," Shakespeare knew that the present moment, or even the present age, is but a tiny facet of universal reality.

It is a poetic statement of Spinoza's "Viewpoint of Eternity."

THE BRITISH Association for the Advancement of Science seeks to channel our marvelous scientific advance into the use and need of an enlightened civilization. They appoint a committee to organize and systematize this effort.

Prominent on the committee is H. G. Wells, liaison between the scientific and lay worlds, the John the Baptist of the social wilderness, crying doom unless we reorganize the world for peace and progress, rather than killing.

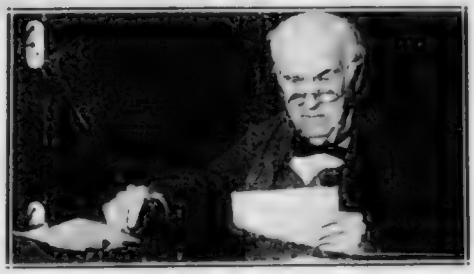
The scientists' committee, in its personnel, has a range and diversity which covers all mundane problems. The knights of this round table would seize the gage of battle against war, poverty, disease, stupidity and the whole dark panoply of advancing ills.

IT WOULD BE NICE if we could just sit around and count our money, and let them slay the dragon.

But this is not King Arthur's day. It is the day of totalitarian war whether we are fighting armies, germs or depression. That is a point the scientists would like to drive home. They remind us that we are all in the same boat together. And too many of us are like the man in the story of the crippled boat.

"Wake up! The ship is sinking," shouted a passenger to his friend.

"What do we care? We don't own it," said the other.



LATE THOMAS ALVA EDISON
He Forged a Two Edged Sword

'Bugs' Baer Says:

WE ARE UP to our hubs in November, which is the critical spot in office etiquette. We know that the windows should be up in July and that the doors should be akimbo. We know that the windows should be down in January and that all doors should be slammed.

BUT NO TWO office workers ever agreed on the right proportion of fresh November air.

WHEN EDDIE opens a window and throws out his chest the rest of the clerks open a door and throw out Eddie.

THAT'S WHY we're interested in the New York clerkette who sued a mugg for fifty thousand crackers in certified packages. She declared he opened a window with malice prepense and atrocious, wicked and immaterial design to plaster her with various echelons of infestipositions. Meanwhile, the atrocious and evil fresh ozone schemer got his sweetheart the job.

THAT LOOKS like a conspiracy in a city where fresh air is easily recognizable. The only thing in his favor is that his final act in the plot was not to nail down the window. It will be difficult to prove that a conspirator sat down with blue prints and smuggled photographs with malice preparatory and talked things over with a northwest breeze.

Coast Rose Bowl Needs Senor Carter

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and [illegible])

WE HAVE half a notion to write those Rose Bowl people out in Southern California and tell them that if they want the greatest show they have ever seen in all their born days, they are suckers if they don't invite Senor Amon Carter, the Hidalgo of West Texas, and the Texas Christian University football team to play in the bowl on New Year's Day.

We do not guarantee that Senor Carter will personally play on the team, though we understand there have been times when the gridiron officials had a tough job keeping him from doing that very thing when Texas Christian stood in desperate need of a few points, but we do guarantee that he will put plenty of ki-yi-yippi-yippy-yi into the occasion.

Senor Amon Carter is a lusty, gusty, fabulous man who rose from "butching" on trains and other catch-as-catch-can tasks to the ownership of the Star-Telegram in Fort Worth, one of the most prosperous newspapers in the United States.

Senor Carter's heart and soul are in West Texas. He loves every clump of grass and every clod of earth there, but most of all he loves the Texas Christian football team.

He follows it around the country. He suffers acutely with it in time of stress, and rejoices for it in periods of prosperity, like right now, when Texas Christian seems to have one of the top teams of the land. You rate those things by the way a football team handles its own schedule, granting that it is a big-time schedule.

WE CAN SEE Senor Carter now on New Year's Day out in front of all those Californians in the Rose Bowl leading his cowboy band. Or is that Paul Whiteman's band we see? You know Whiteman and Senor Carter are close friends, and Whiteman is a West Texan by adoption and we would not put it past Senor Carter to prevail upon the stout musician to take his musical outfit any distance to lend zest to a West Texas demonstration.

The only trouble with our recommendation to the Rose Bowl people is that the last time they listened to us they got the prestige of Western football barked up no little. We recommended Columbia to the bowlers and they accepted our recommendation and Columbia went out and gave Stanford a pasting, so ever since anything we say to the Bowl people is regarded with deep suspicion.

HOWEVER, they might at least take our word for Senor Amon Carter.

It appears that the Coast defender for the New Year's game is still a matter of some doubt, as a triple-plated cinch went wrong Saturday when California got knocked in by the University of Southern California, which had previously been belted by Alabama. Now they are all mixed up and have to cut the cards for the Pacific Coast Conference championship, but that makes no difference to Texas Christian and Senor Carter.

They would probably be willing to play both teams if it comes out a tie on the Coast.

THERE'S ANOTHER reason on the Pirates roster. Bill Cowley, the ace hockey star who either has refused to sign Eddie Shore's management will the Bruins management has diverted attention from the Cowley case. Eddie has returned the contract offered him. The inside of the story is that Cowley wanted a raise and it was granted. At first he couldn't believe his ears when the contract that he might find a mistake had been made. But it was no mistake. He got his raise $100 for the season.

In keeping with Monday night football hero Monday this season's over-looked Harvard's Torbert MacDonald who has certainly been class enough at the Stadium to be seen. In the Record column today Sammy Cohen points out the the Harvard star is a chip off the old block. He is a son of Jack McDonald the old Holy Cross football star.

There are athletes on both lines of Torbert's family . . . His mothers brother is Umpire "Hub" Hart . . . "Hub" was catcher of the championship White Sox club which pre dated the Black Sox of 1919 . . Incidentally Frank Ryan, the Harvard publicity man, and Eddie Arcaro, who is one of Paul Revere's closest friends, are married to cousins of Torbert.

Now that Newton has been able to place a local referendum on the ballot asking the citizens to consider giving city employes "vacations with pay," there is a chance that the city's fire-fighters will eventually get a break . . . Newton is said to be the only city of comparable size in the country which has not a two-platoon system for firemen . . The firemen are on call 106 hours a week.

Phyllis Cynthia Fritz, a 15-year-old Dorchester girl, who won an art scholarship last year, has progressed so rapidly that art critics are taking notice . . . At the Detroit convention of the American Trucking Association, Joseph A. Harraghey, the Somerville fleet-owner, was made a director of the board.

One of the chorus girls at the Casa Manana danced through one whole chorus routine with a hair-do of the "up" variety . . She must have felt that she was too noticeable, because in her next appearance the coiffure was changed to chorus-standard. It's an attractive line of youngsters the two Jack Browns are exhibiting at their uptown spot.

Nye Mayhew, the long-run record-holder among the local band-leaders (with a season and a half at the Statler to his credit) will mount the bandstand of the Hotel Copley Plaza's Sheraton Room tomorrow night . . . Maestro Mayhew, this column is told, has been booked by the Marshards of Boston . . .

Boston Society Girls Show How Hoop Skirts Should Be Worn

Girl About Town by Marguerite Downey

LEARN TO BALANCE a ten-pound encyclopedia on your head and shoe your dancing feet in ballet slippers. That's the recipe for wearing hoop-skirts with dash, according to Gertrude Vinley Kay social usage professor at Emerson College.

We beg your pardon, did we say dash? That's the fault with the modern miss in picturesque clothes. She dashes too much. You're supposed to languish.

Throw your spike-heels out the window, learn to walk on the balls of your feet and you're putting your best foot forward toward creating a devastating effect.

But Miss Kay has some ideas about the exigencies of modern life in hoop-skirts. If you have to mount a tar stool, you can do it gracefully. Hold your skirt in your left hand, put left foot up on a stool and balance gracefully on your right foot. Sounds like a dancing lesson, but the effect's worth the effort.

When confronted with a telephone booth or an automobile, slip in sideways. You'll fit and your dress won't take too much of a beating. But be thankful to automobile designers for practically outmoding running boards.

But, by the shades of your perished great-grandmother, don't shag in your hoop-skirt or jitter to a corny cat's hot tempo! Such jogging to rhythm is grotesque.

THE PAWN SHOES are doing their customary land-office business on Armistice Day eve. A lot of men are dropping in on pawnbrokers and professional collectors to buy medals issued to somebody during the World War. It's impressive to have a few when parading on the holiday.

At Blaine Elmer's shop on Washington st. a German Iron Cross costs about $2. The Croix de Guerre sells for the same sum. The Distinguished Service Meral is rare and brings as high as $40. Purple Heart medal sells for $10 in the current market.

It's curious, but men who pawn medals seldom redeem them.

IF YOU'RE one of those cynics who think high school musicians are devoted to noise rather than artistry, Leighton Noble, the Statler's bandleader is living denial of your belief. He started out in life as leader of the high school band at Pasadena, Cal. Then shortly followed appearances at Cocoanut Grove and Hollywood success.

Heightening the collegiate aspect of the band is Edith Caldwell, the girl vocalist, voted most popular co-ed during her Howard University days.

New York Cavalcade by Louis Sobol

SHORT TAKES: The penny arcades and their moving-photograph shock are vanishing, although one of the old-timers still clings to its Sixth avenue premises . . .

VERNON McFARLANE'S last visit to Cannes brought him an hour's conversation with Maxine Elliott, self-exiled glamour-lady who told him why she had finally decided to desert the stage and America . . . "I told my little manager that as soon as I had enough money saved up I would take a long vacation. My little manager came to me one day and said: 'You have quite a good deal of money now.' and I said, 'All right. I am handing in my two weeks' notice.' and I did—and I never came back." Miss Elliott's "little manager" was George Abbott.

ANOTHER OF OUR TOWN'S unsung personalities is Dave (Kid) Goodman, once a potent bantamweight threat—now a cabman in the 52nd street line. Goodman, then on a barnstorming fight tour in Canada, decided to cash in on the Jeffries-Johnson fight of July 4, 1910. Renting an open lot and leasing a direct wire to the Reno arena, Goodman sold tickets at $1 each to the miners and the sourdoughs and others of the hob-nailed gentry in the Central Canada section, announcing that the fight would be relayed, blow by blow, thanks to the direct wire.

Unfortunately the Kid forgot there was a difference in time, and as the hard-boiled patrons began to express their impatience and demand their money back, he decided something ought to be done. So he stepped on the platform and offered to fight any man in the crowd—first come first served. It is recorded that the 118-pounder knocked out 22 men in succession before he wearied.

Then came the wire flash that the fight had started in Reno and Goodman retired to nurse his wounds.

RECENT BOOKS that have delighted me: A. J. Liebling's Back Where I Came From (home town stuff—with New York the home town) . . . Daniel M. Eisenberg's I Lead the Missing (exciting facts about people who skip town without paying bills and like who break leases—shame on them too—but not too much) . . . R. C. Hutchinson's Testament (almost 700 pages about a Russian rebel who was sentimental, too) . . .

NOW WE HAVE A PLAY in town called Run, Sheep, Run and a columnist who likes to refer to his home town is the hero. He does return to the home town and finds himself involved in a general brawl from which he does not emerge entirely unscathed, although he does manage to get in a good sock or two at a couple of former classmates. The moral of the play is very fine which the play itself is not. Columnists should stay away from their home towns and be content with their penthouses and their syndication and write about Big Town dumps.

Now back where I came from Leona, kill that line!

GLAMOUR LADY MAXINE ELLIOTT

Took Vacation and Never Came Back

AND WHAT NOW?

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON . . In the excitement of the election the president, or lame duck, congress has had little to say. It has not yet begun to assert the powers of the corpse which it is to predict will be a cadaver, and a pair of eyes. The guess as to whether the Republicans will gain seats to win control of the House or lose only a few or half a dozen governors was about even.

That is not true as to the part as seats in each house, popular majorities and so forth, as F. D. R. whether for 100 per cent Third New Dealers in the Democratic party who campaigned on a promise to vote for and support anything the President suggests or for Republicans as against Democrats.

YOU CAN'T travel across this country without sensing resentment. At the election polls it showed.

That may indicate no reversation of extreme Third New Deal policies and personnel in the new Congress. Whether it does or not will be entirely a matter of the President's personal interpretation of it.

He has a wide ground for a swing toward the right without losing any important forward support whatever. The latter element has no place else to go. Mr. Roosevelt's danger is not nearly so much of losing support there as it is losing support in the center and right.

The President's pre-election speech gave business a new case of jitters. They say that it indicates no wish for business co-operation with government and is confirmation of their fear that the O'Mahoney anti-monopoly investigation is going to be a holy inquisition to send all anti-Third New Dealers to the burning faggots.

I can't see that it indicated any such things. It stressed the President's favorite theme of continuity of "liberal" government and pleaded for the election of "liberal" candidates.

Until he is convinced by a shift in votes that such is not the temper and belief of the people why should he change his theme in the aftermath of an election? Why should he now cry out of his own wares, "Rotten fish for sale?"

THE DIRECTION of the Third New Deal policy depends not on that speech, but on the final outcome of this election.

If it reveals as clearly as was shown by the abortive purge of Democratic primary candidates that the people do not want a piano-board Congress on which the President can play any tune he likes, that this country does not like the Third New Deal as well as it likes the President, that it is not a sentence of political death to oppose the Corcoran-Cohen-Hopkins junta, then the Administration will surely shift to the right.

If it shows to the contrary then "we ain't seen nothin' yet."

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving women pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Know Value Of Pungent, Exotic Spices

FROM MARTHA LEE'S WEDNESDAY BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX—11:30 A. M.

When cool November gusts blow Outside, pages off kitchen calendars then blow in the spicy season. On the cookery stage enter pungent cinnamon, aromatic allspice, fragrant cloves, and all the long list of exotic flavorings that go to the good things of the holidays.

And as a wise cook who knows the value of wheat flour as a carrier of all these delightful flavors and scents. Being bland in flavor, flour dilutes and mellows the stronger flavor of spices, and blends all of them into a warm harmony that gives exquisite delight to the true gourmet.

Protein is a quick absorber and carrier of flavors and aromas. Perhaps the protein of wheat flour absorbs some of the flavor of spices and carries them. Certain it is the foundation ingredient of such a fragrant favorite as steamed holiday pudding.

"The DOCTOR" by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Mrs. Lewis Asks Chris To Marry Beverly

CHAPTER 15

Mrs. Annie Lewis had left the specialist's office feeling alone and blue, and had walked the streets for hours . . . block after block, stores and people, carriages, wagons, automobiles, a wedding party coming out of a church, a woman shaking a crying child, a hand organ and a small monkey. Life all around her, and death in her breast.

Staunton Lewis, fastidious and resentful of anything that disturbed the order of his days.

Beverly, vaguely suspicious and alarmed. Old Martha, who knew now and was praying for her in silence [illegible]

And a small stabbing pain which made her draw [illegible] from her clothing and stop in a drugstore to buy the bromide which would do little or nothing to allay it.

She went home after that outwardly unchanged. She was essentially a simple woman. For years in her leisure she had made layettes for the maternities babies born at the hospital, and some of her maternity went into those small useful garments.

Now she turned to them again, sitting all day by her window, sewing her fine stitches, and making such plans as she dared. But only once during these weeks of early spring did she mention Chris Arden.

"I liked your young doctor, Beverly. What's become of him."

"He's busy, I suppose. And he's not mine, Mother."

"Doctors make good husbands."

"Good gracious, Mother," said Beverly, and colored hotly. "He has no idea of marrying me."

"I don't see why not."

"He has no intention of marrying anybody. He won't be able to marry for years."

"Not even if you had an allowance?"

"Do you think he would live on our money, Mother? He would starve first. And he detests Father. I'm sorry, Mother, but that's true. Even if he cared for me, which he doesn't—"

"He wouldn't be marrying your father, Beverly."

MOTHER LEWIS' PLANS

Beverly leaned down and kissed her. "Look here," she said severely. "He'll marry when he wants and whomever he wants. He's that sort. And don't throw me at his head. You'd only get me back in a hurry."

Nevertheless, something of precisely that sort was forming in Annie Lewis's anxious mind. One night soon afterward she slipped out of the house and went down the hill.

Annie moved slowly, every so often putting her hand to her breast. She was trembling when she reached Chris's house, and she waited a moment on the doorstep before she rang the bell. When Chris opened the door, however, she was smiling.

"I'm frightfully late, Doctor. If you are busy—"

"Come in," said Chris. "I'm not busy at all. But don't tell me you are a patient!"

"I really came to talk to you. But I suppose I am—in a way."

He saw at once that she was thinner and that she moved carefully, like a woman who was saving herself from something. But she was still smiling as he put her into a chair.

A SOLEMN SECRET

She looked up into his face. Something there gave her confidence. She could trust this man, and all at once she felt an overwhelming desire to trust somebody.

"I want something for pain, Doctor."

"What kind of pain?"

"Before I tell I want your solemn promise to keep my secret. That sounds rather melodramatic but—"

"That's understood, of course," he agreed quietly.

"I'm afraid I want more than that. I don't want Beverly to know, or Mr. Lewis. Not yet, at least. And I must be certain they won't."

He stared at her. He saw that her mouth was quivering.

"It was too late to do anything," she said quietly. "And Beverly is young. Also my husband has a horror of anything of the sort. I would like them to. I would like to carry on as long as I can. Surely you can understand that."

"I can understand it. Don't expect me to agree with it. If there is anything to be done—"

She was stubborn, however, as she told him of her condition. She had not come for a diagnosis. She already knew what was wrong. She had seen a man in New York. She had come for relief, for something to stop the pain.

She had thought there might be some other way out. Chris, listening incredulously, saw behind all this something more than the eternal—and unwise—shame and secrecy of women in her condition, and was filled with consternation.

What sort of man was Lewis anyhow, that he must be saved a knowledge like this?

He would give her no opiate until he had examined her, and at last reluctantly she allowed him to do so. When he straightened, it was to find her watching him with her faint smile.

HER REAL PROBLEM

"You see, I was right, wasn't I?"

"I'd like another opinion on it," he said cautiously. "In any event something ought to be done and done at once. At least it—"

"At least it would give me a few more months of this! Do you think I want that?"

"I don't understand you. To have let yourself go like this, when you have a husband and a child. Surely you owed them something."

"I wanted Beverly to be happy as long as possible and I had hoped she would marry before this became acute. Nature does a great deal for us, Doctor. If she could have married and had children of her own, it would have been more bearable. I had even hoped—"

He looked at her closely. She was still smiling but rather diffidently now.

"You?"

"I had even hoped that you and she would care for each other. I suppose I am very frank, but at least, as things are, I can afford to be candid."

He knew then why she had come. The pain was real; no doubt of that. But it was Beverly and Beverly's problem which had brought her to him. For the moment his surprise was dominated by his pity for her.

"I am shameless, of course, Doctor. But at night when I can't sleep I lie awake and worry about her. My husband she hesitated. My husband will do very well. He will miss me in some ways, but he has his business and his friends. He—" she smiled again her faint apologetic smile. "It is a long time since he has really cared for me."

She glanced at him, but he said nothing.

"I have always wanted a son," she said. "I think things would have been different if I had had a son. Beverly is closer to her father than she is to me. She loves me, but girls are often like that."

And when he still said nothing, for sheer lack of anything to say:

"That is why I have talked like this tonight, Doctor. She is like her father. She wants a great deal out of life. She needs a man she can look up to, and some one who will look after her. The one she knows—"

Then she saw Chris's face, and her voice trailed off. She pulled her wrap around her shoulders and prepared to rise. Her eyes were tired and defeated.

"I suppose I have made a mistake. I often make them. I am not a very clever woman, Doctor. Please forget all this."

He was on his feet instantly and around to where she sat. Then with a queer, boyish awkwardness he stooped and put an arm around her shoulders.

"IT'S MY PRIDE"

"Mistake? What mistake? Why not be honest? You know I care for her. You know that I'd ask nothing better than to care for her all her life if she would have me. But—"

"I suppose it's my pride," he said. "I want to support my wife when I marry. A few years and I could do that, but now—"

"I can not wait a few years," she said quietly, and got up. "I have suffered a long time for one man's pride, Doctor. It has done many things for him, but it has not made him happy."

He hesitated, looking at her. "I can't make terms with you," he said. "Not with things like this. You know that I care for her, and that, God willing, I'd care for her to the end of her life or mine. If I want to do that in my own way—"

"Why not do it in your own way?"

And then, and only then, he agreed. Looking back, he was to see that scene as a strange one, and his own part in it not particularly noble.

But the whole situation was unreal. He was slightly dazed.

Even when she swayed a little and he held her to steady her, he found his new status difficult to comprehend.

"I shall sleep tonight, Doctor."

"She may not take me. Remember that."

"I think she will. You are big and gentle. Big men are always gentle, I think."

It was still unreal to him when he took her home that night, going slowly so as not to tire her. Now and then he stopped on one excuse or another to let her rest.

ANNIE LEWIS IMPLORES Dr. Chris Arden to marry her daughter, Beverly. "I suppose I am very foolish," she confesses, "but at least, as things are, I can afford to be candid."

"Look at the city lights. Like stars in a pool, aren't they?" Or: "I'm sorry, I'll have to tie my shoe."

Not a word of what was uppermost in both their minds, until at last they reached the door of her house. Then she put out a thin hand and laid it on his arm.

TWO "CONSPIRATORS"

"Good-night, Chris. May I call you Chris now? And God bless you."

He did not let her go at once, however. They stood in the driveway like two conspirators, while he urged her to get another opinion, to do something, anything.

"Why not try Grant? He's a good man."

In the end she agreed; but as he went down the hill again he knew that she expected nothing from another opinion, nor indeed from life itself, but relief.

She was carrying her way, laying her [illegible] and he was so absorbed in her problem that he was halfway home before he remembered Beverly and his promise.

"To marry her and take care of her!" he thought. On what? With what? Not with his own money! Not with his dirty money!

It was shortly after that that old Dave Mortimer dead [illegible] going home after [illegible] found a letter from Lewis, written in her crabbed old hand.

"Doctor: she wrote, 'is not so well this week. He is very cranky now, and as he often knows about you, I know he won't like to see you. He has made no calls for a year or so but people still come to the office and they tire him. I wish you could come and talk to him. Oh, it's time he took a rest."

Over eighty and still working! Chris had not written since his reply to David the summer before, although somewhere there was a letter from Hiram Mortimer stating that his father had bought a car and that he drove it exactly as he had ridden his horses into and over ditches and across fields.

And Chris had a vision of that indomitable old figure going helter-skelter by the village, not roar a he knew to trouble, any trouble, all trouble.

CHRIS GOES HOME

He took a train that same night, having arranged with Jenkins for his city work and with young Lawrence—a new man town the street—for emergencies; and the next morning he was getting off at the small country station and shaking hands with Hiram Mortimer.

Hiram was taciturn as usual. The car bumped along the dirt road and into the village.

"Remember the night we found your father in the ditch, Hi?"

Which one was that? He's been in ditches all his life. Ain't more than a year since we pulled him out of one with this car on top of him."

"Great Scott, was he hurt!"

"Not so he couldn't swear," said Hi with a modest pride.

The house was at the end of the main street, with the big farm behind and beyond it. Chris was startled when he saw old Dave. His big frame was as huge as ever, but the flesh had gone from it. Only his eyes, piercing and direct, were still young.

"Well, Chris, grown up, haven't you?"

"Time passes, sir. I'm almost thirty."

"Thirty!" said old Dave. "You're a child, Chris. A babe in arms. A man doesn't know anything until he's sixty. He's got women out of his blood by that time."

He shouted with laughter as Chris flushed.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup Than You Can Buy

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Instantly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

'Blackbirds' Disappointing After Year's Preparation

Tunes Miss Fire; Comedy, Spark Are Missing

By PEGGY DOYLE

"The Boys From Syracuse" leave no room for enthusiasm in Boston for the Blackbirds which opened last night at the long darkened Majestic Theater and was less fun than the first straggling election returns.

To look in the newspaper Democratic it was as disappointing as the Republican sweep and to a good half of the audience it was the occasion for a concerted walkout at the delayed termination of the two-hour-long first act.

It required six persons count 'em to do the music and lyrics for the sixth and newest edition of Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds," namely Rube Bloom, Johnny Mercer, Dorothy Sachs, Louis Haber, Vic Mizzy and Irving Taylor, and yet there isn't a song that you take with you out of the theater.

Blackbirds" is as lacking in comedy as it is in good music. In fact its first scene is nothing more nor less than a succession of choral numbers strung together with some dance specialties.

The exuberance and bounce that Lew Leslie has condemned his admirers and well-wishers to expect from a Blackbirds production were strangely missing from the curtain night premiere.

Advance publicity has repeatedly assured the waiting public that more than a year was consumed in preparation for this latest Leslie extravaganza.

It is incredible in the face of the unimpaired results.

Best in the show are the dance-teams Norman and Blake, Frances Nrock and Richard Grant, Jennie Clarke and Jerry Laws, and the Misses Clarke, Oliver, Spence and Williams.

Lena Horne, the show's prima donna is very good to look at—would be better if she didn't mugg so much.

Obviously some money has been spent on the production and you wonder as your betters have wondered so many times before how it can be that those in the know carry along a production so far and still be unaware that it hasn't the vaguest resemblance to a play.

Tyrone Power and Annabella in "Suez," opening today at the Metropolitan Theater.

State, Orpheum Set Late Show

A late show is announced for tomorrow, Armistice Day eve, at both Loew's State and Orpheum theaters.

This announcement, made by H M Addison, division manager for Loew's, indicates that the final performance for the evening will take place at 10:15.

This provides an opportunity for late moviegoers to attend either the Orpheum in the downtown section of the city or the State in the Back Bay as late as 10 o'clock at night and view both "Stablemates," starring Wallace Beery and Mickey Rooney and "Listen, Darling," featuring Freddie Bartholomew and Judy Garland.

'Brother Rat' Held Over Week

"Brother Rat," the riotous military school comedy adapted from the Broadway stage hit, coupled with the Dionne Quintuplets' latest screen triumph, "Five of a Kind," the combination of film fare which has been establishing new attendance records at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters all this past week will be held over for a second week at the popular twin houses.

"Brother Rat" tells a merry tale about young men under military discipline at the Virginia Military Institute, and the pretty girls who are their sweethearts.

Ida Lupino's Problem: To Wed or Not to Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9—Ida Lupino and Louis Hayward made all their plans to be married on Monday when a call came from Harry Cohn asking Ida to play opposite Warren William in "The Lone Wolf's Daughter."

Louella O. Parsons

She likes the script and she likes the part, but she hates to postpone her marriage. Today she couldn't decide whether to flip a coin and set her wedding ahead or wait to become Mrs. Hayward after the picture is completed.

I have an idea Mr. Cohn will settle the matter for her by starting the picture Tuesday or Wednesday so that she can marry before she starts emoting in the detective melodrama.

What's Doing in Boston Motion Picture Houses

LOUISE CAMPBELL in "Men With Wings," Scollay and Modern Theaters.

Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda in a scene from "The Mad Miss Manton," which makes its Hub debut at the Keith Memorial Theater tomorrow.

RITA HAYWORTH has the feminine lead in "The Renegade Ranger," featured with "Dark Rapture" on the RKO-Boston screen starting Friday.

'Suez' Portrays Life of Fervent Ambition, Love

The dramatic story of the building of the Suez Canal in the face of nearly every obstacle nature could achieve is the essence of "Suez," Twentieth Century-Fox production which is to have its local premiere today on the Metropolitan screen.

On the same bill will be Warner Brothers' "They Made Me a Fugitive" with Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane.

There has been high praise for "Suez" whose principal character is Ferdinand de Lesseps the man who was driven by the loves of two women to tear continents apart that ships might sail the desert in the short route to the East sought by Columbus and Magellan. Tyrone Power plays this much-lauded role.

The two women who loved him each in her own fashion are portrayed by Loretta Young and Annabella, the former representing the vain luxury-loving worldling and the latter the simple untutored daughter of the desert whose love knew no self-interest.

Teaming two of the screen's most popular players, Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda, "The Mad Miss Manton," RKO Radio's new comedy-romance comes to the Keith Memorial Theater tomorrow.

On the same program is "A Man to Remember," which has commanded universal praise from magazine, radio and newspaper critics everywhere and which features Anne Shirley and Edward Ellis in a powerful human interest story. Preview screenings will be held this evening at 7 and 10 p.m.

Fonda portrays a serious young newspaperman who ecstatically lashes Miss Stanwyck spoiled society girl and her group of girl friends for their thoughtless pranks and exhibitionistic antics.

A vivid dramatization of life in a typical community in America is presented in "A Man to Remember."

Manny Bromberg, one of the most popular and well known figures in Boston's Theatre and Opera district, passed away suddenly yesterday afternoon in his apartment.

Last new production with which Manny was connected was "Stanley and Livingstone" which opened for a second and final week at the Opera House today.

Manny was very excited to start in the Hardy family film series last spring and after their first picture had been in many of an unusual nature.

Associated with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for many years, Manny was the latest "Dr. Kildare" and "Judy Garland" production.

Dramas Share With Musicals

Boston will have four dramas and three musicals to fill out an already abundant theater season in and around Christmas.

Football Film Due at Bowdoin

Bowdoin's screen, starting tomorrow and continuing through Friday, will show "Touchdown Army," swift football film with a West Point background, featuring John Howard, Mary Carlisle and Robert Cummings.

On the same bill will be "The Affairs of Annabel," with Jack Oakie and Lucille Ball.

Ritz Brothers Olympia Stars

The Ritz Brothers are at their zaniest in "Straight, Place and Show," comedy with a racetrack background, opening tomorrow on the Washington St. Olympia screen.

Britain Won't Slice Holy Land

LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP)—The British government announced today abandonment of its proposal to partition Palestine.

Instead a conference of Jews and Arabs will be summoned in London and an attempt made to work out an amicable settlement.

If the conference fails, the government will "take their own decision in the light of their examination of the problem and of the discussion in London, and announce the policy which they propose to pursue."

In a statement issued simultaneously with the report of the royal commission headed by Sir John Woodhead, the government announced its conclusion that "political, administrative and financial difficulties in the proposal to create independent Arab and Jewish states inside Palestine are so great that this solution of the problem is impractical."

The statement said members of the commission were "unable to recommend boundaries for the proposed areas which will afford reasonable prospect of the eventual establishment of self-supporting Arab and Jewish states."

The commission's report came as 20,000 British soldiers sought to restore peace in the Holy Land where an Arab rebellion against British rule and Jewish immigration to their "homeland" has resulted in 2458 casualties in the last four months and 2947 in the preceding two years.

The partition of Palestine was recommended July 8, 1937, in a report by a royal commission headed by the late Earl Peel. Besides Jewish and Arab states a continued British mandate over Jerusalem, Bethlehem and a narrow corridor to the sea was advised.

Bloodshed marked reception of the report. Neither Jews nor Arabs were satisfied with the solution, but the Jews agreed to use it as a basis for further negotiation.

Republicans Make Sweep In N. E. States

daily newspaper into receivership. Others won out in former Democratic votes and rose to assure the election of Vanderbilt, a Republican, ex-state senator and gentleman farmer.

Republicans regained control of the state legislature.

A highlight of the election in Rhode Island was the election of Leslie Pawson, twice winner of the famous Boston Athletic Association Marathon as an alderman in the city of Pawtucket.

Brown Loses

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 9—A New Deal senator and a Democratic congressman today were victims of a Republican sweep of major offices in New Hampshire.

Besides Republicans chose a Republican New Deal critic, U. S. Representative Charles W. Tobey, for the Senate seat now held by Senator Fred H. Brown. Likewise they returned Republican Governor Francis P. Murphy to the state house for a second term by a thumping majority.

They sent Arthur B. Jenks, R., of Manchester back to the seat in the national House which he had to give up to Representative Arthur Roy Obear, only six days before the last Congress adjourned.

After an election recount in 1936 Jenks was declared the winner over Roy, but a lengthy House investigation ended with the vote of that body to seat the Democrat. The House chair formerly occupied by Tobey was given to Foster Stearns, another Republican.

With all of the state's 295 precinct tabulated Governor Murphy was the unopposed leader of his ticket. He had received 107,395 votes to 81,405 cast for his Democratic opponent, John L. Sullivan, a young lawyer.

Tobey won 95,875 votes to 80,835 for Brown in 282 of the 295 precincts. Jenks led Roy 80,256 to 47,385 in 151 precincts of the districts 129 while 138 precincts of the second district 166 gave Stearns 4,904 votes and Alvin A. Lucier (D.) of Nashua, 51,378.

Alcatraz, the "Hot Rock"

tried to bleed to death, where he hoped could see him.

They gave him transfusions, either of blood or salt water, and they saved his life. Even then, put him right back in his cell and kept giving him razor blades at every time. He didn't use them right away; he thought he was under observation. He waited three weeks—and then cut himself again with a razor blade. This time they found him earlier and got him to the hospital, and as soon as he could get out of bed they put him in one of the observation cells there.

He didn't lose much time. He set down a space in the middle of the cell floor, and then he set down a chair and stood it on the wrong spot. Then he wet his feet and his hands, and stood on the chair and un-screwed the electric light bulb and jammed his wet fingers into the socket.

He got jolted pretty bad and then gave up. After that they gave him a spell in the strait-jacket. When they untangled him again he tried to cut his throat with glass from a broken light bulb. It was just a scratch.

His last go-around on the Rock came while he was still under observation. His food was brought to his cell but he didn't want it. All he wanted was the fork. He bent one prong downward and jacked it into his wrist. He wanted it under a big vein and pried. He kept prying until the vein was lifted clear out of his wrist. Then he bit it—in two.

FINALLY MEETS DEATH

He was trying to repeat that performance on the other wrist when they found him. That time they decided that maybe Stadig wasn't quite right, mentally, and they took him away—to Leavenworth.

And on the very day he reached Leavenworth, he pulled his last escape. He beat the place with the broken lens of his eyeglass. The report we got was that he was sitting in the warden's office, and he sliced his jugular, and sat there holding it open until he fell over. He died three days later.

Another con who didn't quite make it on the Rock, but who put over a good try, was Rufe Persful, the Arkansas kidnaper who used to brag about being a con-guard in Arkansas.

Besides bragging, he used to worry about it, too. He wouldn't go in the yard with the other cons until he got permission to wear his guard's Sunday clothes, so the gun guard could keep an eye on him. All the rest of the cons had to wear their "grays," the working clothes.

CHOPS FINGERS OFF

When they put Persful in the mat shop he used to put his bench into a corner and sit with his back on the wall, so he could see everybody and so nobody could sneak up on him. And he'd never wash up with the rest of the cons. He'd stand with his back to the wall till they were finished.

Finally he got so bad that the guard on the clean-up crew had to handcuff a garbage can to the wrist where he'd have to carry it, or he wouldn't take it any other way. He'd carry the garbage in the morning and empty it in the afternoon.

That one day during the Easter he passed up a bucket and he had to feed on a hard meal. He ripped off his shirt, tore the tail off it, tied a knot in one end, handed them to the officer and helped him to work on the other end.

Opinion was divided as to whether Persful was trying to kill himself or just deadpan humor. It was definitely known that he was trying to get himself sent some place away from the other cons.

He succeeded, too. In the meantime he used to take that mat and hand-saw the wall away, piece by piece, and he kept it covered and quiet. And then one day he was gone with a mass murderer, headed for the federal jail at Springfield.

WALEY'S PLAN

And there was the Kidnaper Pelley. P. O. Waley was sent there, because they'd tried to put a cap into the warden's neck.

Outside of the fact they didn't let him attempt to escape that Kansas was all right again. There's an—

"Aw, let him alone; he's just taking his exercise."

And keep on exercising there's Harmon Waley, the Weyerhauser kidnaper. Once he tried to cut his wrists. Then he tried to hang himself. The only time I saw Waley was when I talked to him and asked him if he thought he could escape. He said he didn't care a damn. He was happy. I never saw a con on the Rock and didn't expect to.

He showed me a page out of a magazine. It was an advertisement with an anatomical drawing showing all the blood vessels. He had some of them marked over in blue. He showed me the main one and said:

"Next time, I'll know where to cut: there won't be any mistakes."

(Tomorrow, Reed will relate how the Alcatraz convicts, revolting against the rigors of the Rock, attempted to make it over according to their own desires—how and why they went on strike and what came of it.)

G. O. P. Landslide Hits Vermont and Conn.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 9 (AP)—By top-heavy majorities, rock-ribbed Republican Vermont today returned to office three cohorts of the New Deal: Governor George D. Aiken, Senator Ernest W. Gibson and Representative Charles A. Plumley.

With 241 out of 246 cities and towns tabulated, Aiken led Fred C. Martin (D.), internal revenue collector for Vermont, 74,488 to 57,218. Gibson rolled up 73,488 votes to 38,111, for John McGrath, his Democratic opponent, and Plumley polled 71,587 to 39,875 for James P. Leamy (D.).

Aiken's bid for a second term on honor never yet refused an incumbent in Vermont—drew the largest vote on the ticket. He polled 83,602 votes to 53,218 for A. H. Heininger (D.).

Leamy, a Rutland attorney, led his party, but his vote did not live up to Martin's prediction that the Democrats would poll their highest vote in the state's history. The state has never gone Democratic in its long history.

Cross Loses

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 9 (AP)—Republicans today had regained control of Connecticut in comeback victories giving them the governorship for the first time since 1928, and also the United States senatorship.

The Republican surge back to power, coming two years after the Roosevelt 100,000 vote landslide, placed 45-year-old Lieutenant Governor Raymond E. Baldwin in the gubernatorial chair in a close three-cornered race, marked by the largest Socialist vote in the state's history.

Virtually complete unofficial returns gave Baldwin a slim lead of about 2700 votes over Gov. Wilbur L. Cross.

Swept out of office with the governor were Senator Augustine Longergan who lost his seat to John A. Danaher, Republican, and all of the principal Democratic incumbents except two members of the national House of Representatives.

Stassen Victor In Minnesota

ST. PAUL, Nov. 9 (AP)—Governor Elmer A. Benson, the country's only Farmer-Labor U. S. chief executive, today conceded victory to Harold E. Stassen, his 31-year-old Republican opponent in the race for Governor of Minnesota as additional returns boosted Stassen's lead close to the 100,000 mark.

In his statement extending congratulations to the new governor, Benson asserted that Farmer-Laborites would not stand in the way of the Republican chief executive in his efforts to put into effect the "liberal platform" on which he was elected. He termed his defeat a "temporary setback."

With 1184 of the state's 3740 precincts tabulated, Governor Benson received 149,114 against 243,230 for Stassen. Thomas Gallagher, Democrat, was third with 2090

Serge Lifar's Spirit Revealed in 'Giselle'

By RUTH MARSTERS

The single remnant of Serge Lifar's spirit which the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo still calls its own since that volatile personality separated itself in a huff from the entourage was in evidence last evening in the presentation of "Giselle."

Opening the second program of the company's Boston Opera House engagement, "Giselle" proved a rewarding vehicle for the talents of Alicia Markova in the title role and Igor Youskevitch as Count Albrecht.

RE-STAGED BALLET

Lifar's contribution was after all, only the re-staging of the ballet, the scenario of which was written long ago by Theophile Gautier.

It was the poetry of Markova's dancing and characterization, first noted in opening night's performance of "L'Epreuve d'Amour" and the excitement of Youskevitch's debut which held interest.

We are among those participants fortunate in having missed seeing Lifarsky in "Les Apres Midi de Faune." What's that would account for the fact that Lifar's choreography was never left us with a feeling of disappointment is hard to say, how so stark mannerisms could possibly have been inspired by Debussy's music and disappointed he was we were unable to join in the enthusiasm toward the production. It may be that Nijinsky managed to infuse some sort of beauty or significance into the thing of which we have no inkling.

DIFFICULT ASSIGNMENT

Yura Zoritch postured as well as any we have seen in the role but it seemed to us a difficult debut assignment.

The colorful and exhilarating "Prince Igor" brought the program to a close with Frederic Franklin again contributing largely.

"Giselle" is repeated in this afternoons performance. "Sports De La Neige" and "Cafe Parisienne" completing the program.

This evening Massine's much heralded "St. Francis" will have its first Boston performance. "Les Les Cygnes" and "Le Beau Danube" will supply necessary contrast in familiar settings.

Do You Want A Baby?

It is a well known fact that "Complete unity and happiness in married life is brought by babies," and that lack of children in the home is one of the greatest causes for discontented marriages. Also that woman was intended for Motherhood, but too often one has a functional weakness. During an experience of more than 40 years specializing in conditions peculiar to women, I developed a simple home method which has brought new hope.

Happiness has been brought to many who were childless because of functional weakness. Husbands have written me the most glowing letters of gratitude, in such cases. Now I want other women suffering from functional weakness to learn about this splendid method and how it may be used in the privacy of the home. (Copr. 1939)

I have printed an illustrated comprehensive treatise on the merits of this method, in which I intimately discuss many important subjects relating to the female organs that are vitally interesting to every woman. They tell how you too may often combat your troubles as have others who reported the arrival of babies after being childless for years, due to functional weakness. So often again certain women may enjoy the desire and activities of Nature's most wonderful creation—a normal, fully developed, vigorous woman. "NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING" NEWSPAPER

HOURLY

PLAY-BY-PLAY

IN THE

STOCK MARKET

The stock market roared a resounding welcome today to election returns revealing important Republican gains. In the heaviest trading in weeks prices spurted from 1 to 3 points to new highs for the bull movement.

10-11—The opening was a strong active affair with large blocks changing hands at advances of fractions to more than a point. Buying orders poured into brokerage offices for every group on the board. Rails and utilities were in especial favor. Gains were extended to 2 points in short order and the tape soon fell behind by a minute or so. The ticker pace showed no sign of abating. Heavy industry issues, particularly steels, forged higher. Everywhere the surprising sweep of conservative forces was being accounted and enthusiasm for stocks grew anew. The tape was behind by about 5 minutes and prices were ahead by 1 to 3 points. Some traders were reported cashing profits but these offerings were easily taken. Volume 950,000 shares.

11-12—Aviation shares added good gains to their excellent ones of Monday and motors churned their way to new peaks. Minus signs were a rarity. Irregularity within groups was limited to an unchanged to higher range. Du Pont showed the maximum gain, up over 4. The rubbers were strong, with Goodyear overcoming all opposition from sellers in a march to 35. The trading pace had gradually slowed and top marks were slightly reduced. No weakness showed anywhere and observers felt nothing worse than a natural trading reaction was impending. Transfers reached 1,390,000 shares.

12-1—American Can was a back water issue but it was all alone in losing a point. Best group performances were turned in by steels, motors and utilities. Rails and coppers were a trifle slow following the rise. Prices after mulling around rather quietly just under best levels suddenly spurted anew as fresh buying swept the list. Bonds swept to new highs, with secondary issues and fractions in the van of the upturn. Commodities also were doing very well. Demand for stocks continued to broaden out again and prices made up their minor losses and a little more for good measure. Volume 1,840,000 shares.

1-2. The new upswing spread through the list at a terrific rate. Rails began to assume a prominent part and shot forward for good gains. Within a short space of time the carriers were monopolizing the tape and duplicating gains shown in the industrial department. Motors eyed to fresh peaks. Rubbers showed up extremely well with Goodyear and U. S. both at new tops for the year or longer. The preferred issue of the latter was selling around 107. The rails held to a steady uptrend and leaders established new highs regularly. Transfers 2,280,000 shares.

Auto Future Grows Rosier

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—With the annual New York automobile show opening Friday, leaders of the industry generally believe that the near-term future will be rosier than the recent past.

Opportunities for profitable activity in the coming year have been heightened by policies which the industry has pursued during the troubled period, when it took its losses rapidly instead of showing difficulties to pile up.

Without fanfare in recent months, the automotive manufacturers pursued policies which assisted dealers throughout the country to write off their losses without pain.

In order to accomplish this readjustment the manufacturers, trading dealers a few months apparently stocked with new and used cars, disastrously curtailed new production of old models in order to give the retailers a chance to work off stocks on hand.

DEMAND VARIED

This was simply common sense, yet it is noteworthy that within the framework of a rigid economic system it was possible to work out extraordinary sound procedure.

Moreover with economic conditions strictly debated for new and old cars varied greatly in different parts of the country.

Accordingly as a service to dealers manufacturers were helpful in financing inventories of cars from new-car dealers to orders of stocked cautious.

A metropolitan city like Detroit which moves up and down with a swing rapidly found itself tremendously overstocked with used cars early in 1938 and found itself on having some of them to Texas and elsewhere. However after recovery set in the summer the Detroit dealers experienced shortages of good cars and had to buy cars in from other sections, according to trade reports.

On account of the success in liquidating old stocks before the new models were ready automobile manufacturers now feel it is safe to employ men and hand up inventories of new cars in anticipation of the coming spring demand.

Giving an optimistic interpretation to conditions and prospects industry for the year and for the coming years, they make sure we're going to stick out their necks.

They are getting ready producing in anticipation of demand but they are not counting chickens in the belief that a lot of expansion in volume will result are to effect efficiency economies from mass production.

It is understood that President Roosevelt is pleased with these policies of industry.

The Manager of the Malden Office MR. ROY SHOREY

They Like the Friendly, Easy, Business-like Way He Gives Them Cash!

● Nothing cold or stern about the gentleman above. In fact, you'd go a long way before you found a chap more friendly, pleasant and understanding.

● He's typical of the men who manage the neighborhood offices of the Personal Finance Company—which helps explain why 776,000 people borrowed money from us last year, giving us the title of America's most popular loan company!

If you need from $25 to $300 he'll be glad to help you get it. Won't ask tiresome questions, either—or bore you with needless red-tape. Just a few necessary facts, and as soon as your application is approved, he'll have your money ready.

There's a man just like him at each of our 14 local offices, listed below. If you need money, stop by! You don't have to ask a friend to sign your note, nor do you have to own real estate or an automobile. You can get your loan quickly—and quietly!

Austen Lake:

Q's and A's From the Week's Sport Mail

SCANNING THE WEEK'S SPORT MAIL and, where indicated, giving soft answers:

AUSTEN LAKE

'Sir . . . (Ed. note: Excessive vituperation deleted) Why do Boston sport writers, as a group, constitute the most numb-brained set as this numb-brained profession can boast, so unitedly avoid giving Holy Cross its just due . . . The Purple has one of the real ranking teams in the country . . . R. J. K., Woburn."

Ans.—(1) They don't! (2) It has! As an out-of-town institution, H. C. gets its fair share of typo-recognition along with Brown, Dartmouth and Yale. Still, in my not-too-humble opinion, H. C. can give the Nation's biggest and best, including Notre Dame, a disintergrating gallop. It's single blight was a 7-6 loss to Carnegie, a tie missed by a foozled try-for-point; whereas Carnegie, in its turn, missed a 0-0 tie with N. D. (theoretically at least) by a referee's error and mauled Pitt. Certainly, any team which has scuttled Georgia 29-6, Colgate 21-0, and Temple 33-0, casts a long shadow.

'Sir . . . It seems good business policy for Boston major league baseball magnates, Messrs. Cronin and Stengel, to take up year-round residence in the city where they get their livings. They make it here. Why don't they spend it here? It places a strain on the loyalty of the people. . . Irate Fan."

Ans.—It needn't! The fans have the right to buy tickets or not to buy them, and that lets them out. Major league ball players have, by long accepted practice, been tramp athletes gathered from every whither. That they are not residents of the city which they represent (excepting Danny MacFayden and Elbie Fletcher of the Bees) detracts nothing from their illusionary charm. The boys are brought from hither and yon, as Mr. Roosevelt would say, for the "expanding privileges of our social economic system,' whatever that means.

Music for Shore, Mixed Bag for Dobie

"SIR—WHY LEAN ON EDDIE SHORE? He's given Boston it's money's worth. Now, if he's in his "physical autumn," as you say, why not pay him out with music? . . . Fan plus."

Ans.—This column's profession of faith, is to deal analytically and without too much sticky drip with current pro sport characters and to treat departed heroes with autopsical accuracy. Sport people deal in realities. They refuse to look at today's tarnished idols and remember them as they glittered years ago. Anyway, Shore isn't ready for a burial dirge. Fear not! In his time he will be played off with appreciative fanfare.

Sir . . . Thanks for giving Gil Dobie a "break" recently. Many of us B. C. alumni think the old man has done a grand job. I, for one, don't want a return to the graduate coaching system . . . B. C. '32"

"Sir—From the tone of your recent tripe, you appear to be constituting yourself a one man 'Save Dobie' movement. Leave judgment on that to your betters. . . . B. C. '24"

Ans.—B. C. alumni, apparently, are not of one mind. The decision on Dobie rests with the faculty, the alumni and—not the least voice!—the kids. There are other elements to consider than record and sentiment—salary for example. Gil gets $10,000—approximately $5000 more than Joe McKenney drew. But if, perchance, the college does decide to return to an alumni coach, the man with the strongest backing seems to be Warren McGuirk, current Malden High mentor. I still think Dobie is doing a good job.

Hokus-Pokus, All-All America

"SIR—AS A REPRESENTATIVE of the sporting goods firm which this letter-head bears, allow me to correct a recent newspaper statement that exorbitant profits in sport materials is blameworthy for the decline in National play. Never have sport goods been so cheap, profit after manufacturing expense, taxes, sales cost and overhead, rarely exceeding 7 per cent . . . STR, Boston."

Ans.—This corner was not responsible for such statement. However, from casual acquaintance with the market, I can agree with the above remarks. For example, the footballs which are now sailing through New England air, contain more concealed taxes than the Harvard varsity has hokus-pokus. There are 103 different processing taxes levied against the leather, canvas lining, patent valve, rubber inflater, lace, sewing, etc. The tax represents 10 per cent of the total cost. Baseballs have between 78 and 97 tax varieties. Makes one think, or does it?"

"Sir—To settle an argument. A bets Walter Camp, before his death selected an All-Time All-America college football team and that Tack Hardwick, Harvard '14 was among those named. B bets there never was such a team named. . . Myron T., Cambridge."

Ans.—Camp did not choose such a team but the late Parke Davis (1871-1934), his contemporary in this peking business, did. The team selected was: Ends, Frank Hinkey, Yale '93, and Huntington Hardwick, Harvard '15; Tackles, Hector Cowan, Princeton '88, and Wilbur Henry, W. & J. Fans Support Eddie Shore In Salary Row

By BILL GRIMES

Stunned by the exclusive announcement in yesterday's BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN that Eddie Shore had been refused permission to practise with the Bruins, the more rabid type of hockey fans are asking some pert questions.

EDDIE SHORE. WESTON ADAMS ART ROSS
COME ON, NOW, LET'S GET TOGETHER

Will Eddie Shore come to terms with the Bruins?

Are the Bruins trying to get rid of Shore because of his salary demands?

Will the Bruins trade Shore?

Would Eddie get a better break with another club?

Why and how was Calder brought into the controversy?

What can Calder do to rectify the predicament?

Have the Bruins forgotten that Eddie Shore MADE hockey in Boston?

Now, as I see it, the time to speak up in hockey arguments is when there's snow on the ground. NOT when the temperature is in the middle 80s.

But, apparently, the Eddie Shore hockey fans are not respectors of weather conditions. They are under the impression that the Bruins "can't do right by Nell" or rather Eddie. And, they demand a satisfactory explanation.

FANS LOYAL TO EDDIE

There are hundreds of Eddie Shore Chowder and Marching Clubs in and around this vicinity. Members of these organizations have been Eddie Shore rooters for more than a decade. And, there isn't a single member but will run a fever if anyone hints, even slightly, that Eddie Shore isn't the GREATEST hockey player that ever pulled on a pair of skates and boots.

(And, if you think that statement is an exaggeration use your "by line" over a story that puts the heat on Shore.)

Due to the fact that salary controversies between Eddie Shore and the Bruins have been cropping up almost annually, combined with the fact that football is still THE big sport issue in these parts, the phlegmatic type of hockey fans have not displayed any undue interest.

But the Shore-Bruin situation could become serious. Art Ross states that Shore has been offered a substantial raise over last season. Shore agrees with Ross on that point but asserts that he was "cut" fifty per cent at the end of the 1936-37 season during which he played only 18 games and returned to his home in Edmundston early in February.

MADE HOCKEY IN BOSTON

Shore calls attention to the fact that he was the big gate attraction when he first joined the Bruins. Ross claims he doesn't enjoy reading some of Shore's exploits of a year ago.

Eddie's boosters say it only cost a measly $15,000 to get Eddie Shore from Edmundston. They call attention to the great deals Weston Adams was making when he signed Eddie Shore that brought about the building of the Boston Garden and that if Shore hadn't been with the Bruins, N. H. L. games would not be played in the Arena. And that his playing has made fortunes for the owners of the Bruins.

The Bruins argue that Shore has always received top salary. They appreciate the fact that Eddie has been a fine box office attraction but that there is a point that will determine with any reasonable degree of accuracy just how many fans Shore has drawn to their games.

BUT they have figures to show that the attendance didn't fall off when Eddie quit the club in the middle of the 1936-37 season.

SUSPENDED BY CALDER

Eddie Shore's suspension by Pres. Frank Calder is regarded as routine and just as soon as he affixes his signature to a Bruins contract he'll be re-instated.

In all probability, Shore and the Bruins will come to a peaceful settlement of their difficulties within a few days. Shore isn't going to toss away $8000 of $10,000 or whatever he's receiving. Nor are the Bruins going to keep a player of Shore's box office appeal off their roster.

Shore will confer with Pres. Calder. He will be advised to contact Art Ross. There'll be a lengthy and, probably, a very heated argument. Shore will accept a salary plus a bonus offer, the pipe of peace will be passed around; Eddie will express his deepest sorrow for not making the last trip and Uncle Arthur will say that it was all in fun.

Hearst All-America Second Trial Tilt Slated for Monday

The Hearst All-America amateur boxing tournament, off to the greatest start in its brilliant history, will stage the second of its tryout matches at the Arena on next Monday night with the co-operation of the Irish American A. A.

There was terrific punching and flashy boxing in the first of the tryout matches, with Clayton Moore, a 118-pounder from Pepperell, coming through as the star of the show.

There will be ten classes at next Monday night's tryout, eight championship classes for experienced boxers, and novice matches at 135 and 160 pounds.

All entries close with Tom Kanaly at the Arena, and boxers intending to try for a place on the All-America Finals program should file their entry immediately.

TWO MORE TRYOUTS

Following next Monday night's presentation there will be two more tryouts—November 21 and 28—with the winners of the four shows qualifying for the New England All-America Finals, to be held at the Boston Garden on December 5.

Then on December 12 at the Garden the New England Champions will meet the All-America title holders of New York, Syracuse, Albany and Baltimore in the Eastern A. A. finals, with these winners representing the East in the Grand National All-America tournament in Detroit in January.

Many more new boxers showed to great advantage in the first A. A. tryout, giving the fans a forecast of what to expect in the finals. Practically every amateur boxer of note in this section has primed himself for the acid test in these tryouts, which will result in the grandest array of punching power and fighting ability ever thrown into any amateur final show when the gladiators swing away on December 5.

CLASSY ENTRY LIST

No sooner was last Monday night's bouts completed than Tom Kanaly was swamped with entries for next week. Some of the boys who signed up are Leo LeClerc, Manchester, N. H.; Paul Bentuvegna, Boston; Mike Melapouries, Boston, Guy Vitaghano, Medford and Edward DeAngelis, Revere, in the 112 Sam DiVincenzo, Haverhill; Genaro DeMalo, Springfield; Al Proietti, Leominster; James Esposito, Brookline, Pat Siciliano, East Boston; Tony Russo, Dorchester and Joe Savia of Cambridge in the 135.

Gene Robichaud of Worcester and Dave Powell of East Boston are in the 147 pounds class.

Bouley Races at Topsfield Track

George Bouley, young Connecticut auto race champion, hopes to rout the jinx that has followed him into races at the Topsfield Fair Grounds, when he starts with the pack in the Armistice Day race, Friday afternoon.

After the recent crash at the Fair Grounds in which Bouley was rushed to a hospital few expected the Nutmeg Stater to return to racing this year.

Eliot Benoit, French speedster, Lou Guilaino and Louis Mainella, Providence drivers, Gene Trinque, Mapleville, R. I., and Sonny Martin, Bangor, Me., are other New England drivers entered.

Al M'Coy Wins Nod Over Olin

MONTREAL, Nov. 9 (INS)—Al McCoy of Boston punched his way into the heavyweight picture with a vengeance when he pounded out a 10-round decision over Bob Olin of New York.

It was McCoy's second straight victory in a month here, having previously knocked out Al Shanks of Montreal. McCoy, sporting the former world's light-heavyweight champion two pounds looked impressive as he used his left hook with telling force.

After feeling each other out for the first three rounds, the Boston boy really went to work in the fourth round, in which he scored by a wide margin. McCoy lost the fifth when he was warned for striking a low blow. The sixth was even and Olin scored in the seventh, downing McCoy for no-count.

Olin was warned twice in the eighth for hitting low and McCoy got the best of a toe-to-toe exchange in spite of the fact that he went down again, but failed to take a count. McCoy had the best of the ninth and earned the nod with a whirlwind finish.

Johnny Dubo of Haverhill, Mass., scored a technical knockout over Harold "Babe" McLeod of Montreal in the sixth round of an eight-round semi final.

Jack McGrath Takes A Daring Gamble | 100,000 Guarantee For Irish Tenor

By JACK CONWAY

I ADMIRE THE daring of Jack McGrath of Worcester who heads an American syndicate that has guaranteed 24-year-old Hubert Valentine, Irish tenor, $100,000 for an American tour.

Mr. Boston

If pressed on cross examination, McGrath would probably admit that his knowledge of music is rather limited. In his youth, McGrath was a wrestler and a boxer. He later became a professional promoter and manager of athletes.

While McGrath's knowledge of music may be restricted, he does know that there are hundreds of thousands of people who would rather listen to a great tenor than do anything else. During his frequent trips to Ireland, McGrath has been numbered among the capacity audiences that have been thrilled by youthful Hubert Valentine, a protege of Dr. Vincent O'Brien who also taught John McCormack how to sing.

When Valentine sings in Dublin, thousands of persons are always unable to gain admission to the concert hall. The enthusiasm of the audiences is usually very high.

President Douglas Hyde of the Irish Free State, Hon. Alfred Byrne, Lord Mayor of Dublin and Sean McEntee, Minister of Finance, are Irish leaders who have displayed enthusiasm about Valentine's voice.

Valentine is possessed of remarkable breath control and seems to be as much at home singing difficult operatic passages as when he is singing traditional Irish ballads.

Both Richard Tauber and Beniamino Gigli have expressed great interest in Valentine and each has predicted a bright future for him.

American Debut in Boston

AT THE AGE of 20 Valentine was a leading artist in Sheffield under the Conductorship of Sir Henry Coward. Ever since then he has kept improving under the guidance of Dr. Vincent O'Brien. He has been featured on the concert stage, in films, on the radio and on records.

McGrath noted all these facts, and concluded that the new Irish tenor would be a sensation in the United States.

"I believe Valentine will earn $1,000,000 in the United States within the next two years," said McGrath.

Valentine arrives in New York tomorrow aboard the George Washington. He will bring the greetings of Hon. Alfred Byrne, Lord Mayor of Dublin, to Mayor LaGuardia of New York and to Mayor Tobin of Boston.

Arrangements have been completed for the young Irish tenor to make his American debut at Symphony Hall on November 24, Thanksgiving Day night.

Hubert Valentine signing $100,000 contract for American tour with Hon. Alfred Byrne, lord mayor of Dublin, in center, and Jack McGrath, looking on.

Rindge, Lynn English Top Card

Whelan's Club Hits Fast Pace

Undefeated after the opening game of the season the Rindge Tech high eleven will provide the sports feature for the celebration of the school's golden anniversary meeting Lynn English's starting grid team at Russell field in one of the standouts on the Armistice Day scholastic program.

Although English has become the talk of schoolboy circles by winning its last four starts, Coach Wilfred "Mitch" Metevier of the Tech tacticians is confident of continuing along the victory path.

"We have come along fast since the opening of the season," said Metevier, "and I have doubts that any team in the state can whip us right now.

"A good example was last Saturday's game with Beverly. We outclassed our opponents completely but the breaks were against us.

SCORED ON LONG RUN

"Their lying marker came on a long run that is not uncommon on the schoolboy gridirons. Our boys were overjoyed at pushing over a score and mixed up completely on their ensuing tackles.

"We realize that Tom Whelan's club is hitting a faster pace than any in the ranks right now but you can depend on our club to make the Alumni happy that they resisted the school to take in this game."

BAIGA MAY START

Frank Baiga has been alternating with Bob McGrath at tackle in the backfield a pair of fast and Foster and both have been doing fine jobs. Baiga by his exceptional work this week in practice sessions, will probably get the starting call Friday.

Henry Bonneau, brother of former all-State [illegible] Al, James Griffin and Larry Bonneau will form the rest of the backfield. Griffin 145 pound colored lad, has provided an O'Rourke spark to the team with his shifty running and he promises to provide English with a load of worry.

STRONG LINE

Metevier's forward wall that averages 180 pounds has stood up well during the year's campaign boasting a pair of towering veterans in Henry Hebart a Jack Johnson lookalike and Lawrence Metevier playing brother to the coach.

To complete the wall of granite Coach Metevier will send Tom Keely, Wiggin, Jeszeleski, Scott and Killackey into the field at the offense's starting call.

Child Ice Sensation To Show at Arena

A little blonde-haired girl, with grace and a roguish smile, the latest sensation in the sports world arrived in Boston today.

The talented little lady who was met as she stepped off the train steps by most of Boston's big figure skating stars, Roger Turner, Polly Blodgett, and a host of others, is thirteen-year-old Hazel Franklin, all the way from Bournemouth, England.

She comes to Boston, interrupting her trip to Hollywood, to skate especially for the gala opening of the Hub's newest sports and social organization, The Figure Skating Club, at Boston Arena, Thursday.

H.C.-Brown Best Game On Holiday

With the Holy Cross-Brown game only two days away, Dr. Eddie Anderson and Tuss McLaughry are driving their respective Crusader and Brunonian squads to the very limit.

On the holiday, Holy Cross and Brown will meet at Fitton Field, Worcester, in a gridiron classic which will draw fans from all sections of New England.

Holy Cross is represented by one of the greatest elevens in the annals of football. The Crusaders have met with but one defeat playing a schedule which included such outstanding teams as Carnegie Tech, Georgia, Colgate, Temple and Manhattan.

They were beaten by a margin of a point after touchdown by the Carnegie Tech, which scored a 20 to 10 victory over the Pittsburgh Panthers, but pushed over five touchdowns against Temple, thereby running up the largest score made on the Owls this season.

EXCELLENT RECORD

Any college eleven that can score three touchdowns on Andy Kerr's Colgate Red Raiders, who beat Columbia and Iowa and held Duke, Syracuse to one touchdown and the powerful Cornellians to 12 points, is a worthy opponent in anybody's league.

And, it might be well for Brown, and also Boston College to bear in mind that the Crusaders didn't get started against Temple until the third period. The players suffered a letdown after the Colgate tilt and there was no noticeable "lift" to the team until the start of the second half, when the Crusaders clicked to score three touchdowns in exactly nine minutes and forty seconds.

And, before the close of that period, Coach Eddie Anderson had his first varsity on the sidelines and his B and C elevens carried on for the remainder of the game, scoring twice in the final stanza.

BROWNS IN SLUMP

Down in Providence, the Brown Bears are still smarting under that defeat by Yale. The Brunonians were strongly favored to beat the Elis but it turned out to be one of those days when they couldn't produce.

But, despite the Yale game, Brown is a great club. Coach McLaughry isn't overburdened with line replacements but he has two back fields and two sets of ends of far better than average ability.

In fact, Brown's first string back field combination will compare very favorably with any in the East.

PREPARING FOR YALE

Harvard is not getting over excited concerning the University of Virginia. If the truth was known, the Crimson is probably getting ready for Yale for Coach Dick Harlow doesn't expect much serious competition from the Southerners.

Chicago Welcomes Son

Stagg Returns To First Love

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (INS)—Out on the campus of Sedate University of Chicago they were awaiting the return of one of their most famous sons—Amos Alonzo Stagg.

Stagg isn't a Chicago man. He came here from Yale. But for 41 years he coached on the midway, until it seemed that white-haired old "Lonny" Stagg was as permanent a part of the university as the great gothic buildings themselves.

But five years ago, the university officials decided to retire Stagg. They didn't know their man. Seemingly as vigorous and as interested in football as ever, the veteran coach passed up the handsome pension offered him and accepted the coaching job at the College of the Pacific.

BACK WITH TEAM

Saturday Stagg brings his Californians here to battle the University of Chicago eleven. He will be given a tremendous welcome. For the first time within the memory of football men hereabouts, the visiting team's bench will be placed on the Chicago side of the gridiron as Stagg [illegible] refuse to meet Alonzo as enemy coach."

And it will [illegible] cry from the old days, [illegible] of the Pacific grad as the football team, although once a power in the Big Ten, was one of the weakest elevens in its history.

In Stagg's long career it must seem to him only a short time ago that his big unbeaten teams, with Fritz Crisler, Chuck McGuire, Harry and John Thomas, and "Five-Yards" McCarthy, were the dynamite of the conference.

STAGG GREAT PLAYER

Stagg himself was a great player at Yale in the 80's before he came to Chicago. He was named on the first all-America team selected by Walter Camp. The "Old Man" is credited with inventing numerous offensive and defensive formations, one of his best being the Chicago off tackle play, which was marked by split-second timing and perfect co-ordination of the entire team.

Stagg often has been criticized for conservatism because he had greater faith in the old reliable ground game than the more spectacular but often less-effective razzle-dazzle. It must tickle the "old man" now to observe that the power attack is coming back into its own—seven years after he was called backward for stressing it.

Krieger's Pilot Sticks To His Guns

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (INS)—Having guaranteed three world champions who got their ears knocked down around their heels before he had a chance to cash in on their titles, Hymie Caplin, the keeper of Solly Krieger, today reiterated that, regardless of the New York Boxing Commission views in the matter, Krieger will not defend the middleweight crown for six months. With that Caplin consigned the 150-pound division to another spell of confusion.

TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT

His exuberance over Krieger's unfair victory against Al Hostak at Seattle last week did not deprive Caplin of his business sense. He shattered Anglium's most hallowed precedent when he failed to announce that Krieger would be a fighting champion and, instead, said:

"We are out to make some money and don't intend risking the title until the customary six months permitted a champion between title fights have elapsed."

For the time being, at least, this kills reports that Caplin would capitulate to the commission's pulated announcement that Krieger would not deserve recognition until he had taken on the winner of the Fred Apostoli-Young Corbett match to be held here November 18. In fact, Caplin wasn't even sure he would appear before the commission today, as scheduled, although he may go Friday.

"That was a very tough fight we had with Hostak. I'm all tired out and need some rest," he explained.

While Caplin and Krieger are resting they will spend the next six months meeting all comers in over-the-weight matches, starting with Billy Conn at Pittsburgh within the next couple of weeks.

CONFUSION AHEAD

Meantime the New York commission may decide to recognize the winner of the Apostoli-Corbett match as world champion, despite Caplin's claims. Thus would the confusion go on unabated.

The confusion centers around this: While Freddie Steele was champion Apostoli knocked him out in a non-title match and also knocked out Marcel Thil, European champion. Subsequently, Apostoli lost to Corbett.

Then along came Hostak to knock out Steele in a title battle, and Krieger then beat Hostak for the title.

Los Angeles Tells St. Louis

Haney Greatest School Athlete

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9 (INS)—Fred Haney, newly appointed manager of the St. Louis Browns, is wondering what he's walking into—but the St. Louis fans are equally bewildered—wondering what's walking into them!

It happens that Haney, the former Los Angeles, Hollywood and major league infielder, is probably the greatest all-around athlete to come out of a high school in this city.

He did everything but sign the report cards—and that includes playing professional ball while still attending Polytechnic high school.

Haney was graduated about 1918—not even Fred is certain—he was in and out so much.

QUITE A RECORD

But while he was in school, being a good student, Haney had time to write the following into Polytechnic high's athletic records.

1—Was a four-year letterman in four major sports.

2—Starred one year at Rugby and then three at American football, playing in the backfield, where he used his amazing speed to advantage.

3—Chosen on the city's all-star baseball team as an infielder.

4—Held city titles in the low hurdles and pole vault in track.

5—Earned three letetrs in basketball.

6—Held several swimming titles.

7—Played on the water polo team.

8—Los Angeles junior handball champion in both singles and doubles.

The youngest of four athletic brothers, Haney's name is still on the all time all-city football team here. They say that if he had gone to college he would have been a sensational performer, a cinch all American.

Midway in his high school career, Fred took time out to play professional ball for Bill Goodwin of Miami in the Copper League. But Haney always returned in time for the school season.

Because of his in and out antics, the Board of Education was forced to put into effect the present scholastic standards which require a student's full time attendance and absolutence from professional sports or anything closely connected with them.

BROWNS WILL BE SCRAPPY

In Fred's day he went to school to play—he left to play—for money, always returning in time to lead Poly to another victory.

After leaving school for good, the ex-Toledo Mudhen pilot went into the army, joining up with the sub base, where he played two more seasons of football.

His face, carrying cleat marks of years of diamond campaigning—and lined with the trade-marked spikes of Burleigh Grimes who gave him a massage only a couple of years ago, Haney will make the Browns a capable, scrappy and colorful manager.

If he can't win at baseball, maybe he'll show the Brownie fans a few football track, basketball or water polo tricks. But Fred's a confident little guy, and may finally be the one the St. Louis fans have been praying for.

New Hanley Star

Ratcliffe Proves Key to B. U. Offense

By MURRAY KRAMER

The mantle of publicity that has fallen upon the shoulders of Solly Nechtem, Charley O'Rourke, Pete Cignetti and Earle Crompton has completely evaded a gentleman who answers to the name of George Ratcliffe.

Yet this same George Ratcliffe is a young man who is apt to steal the entire show from the stellar luminaries when Boston University and Boston College stage their annual shindig at Fenway Park Friday afternoon.

George is the newly discovered Boston University senior fullback, and thereby hangs a tale:

ALWAYS IN BACKGROUND

Our hero for today is a New Bedford Boy with a Bridgton Academy background. Three years ago as a sophomore he appeared to be a promising fullback, but with Gary Famiglietti and Russ Lawry available there was little hope.

The same was true last year, and as a result George fooled around and gradually learned all the backfield assignments.

This fall he won the right to the right halfback job, but somehow or other he just didn't measure up to standards. In spots he looked good, but he lacked the consistency for a first string halfback. In fact, there were times that Pat Hanley could not make up his mind whether to start or bench George.

Then came the hunch supreme last Friday afternoon. Pat still had all the confidence in the world in his offense and blamed the failure of it against Army and Western Reserve to improper execution.

The entire offensive centers around the fullback, and while he had Russ Lawry, a capable veteran, Russ has been hurt and has been sidelined most of the year. Those games he did play, found Russ so completely taped and padded that it slowed him down.

MAY BE HERO

Pat then asked Ratcliffe if he remembered the fullback assignments and George chirped:

"You bet I do."

And he certainly did. In the key spot against Tampa, George sparked the Terriers to their first impressive victory of the season. He was reminiscent of Famiglietti in his plunging and speed.

The offense looked like the Boston University attack of last year, and what a difference it made.

Now, with four days of practice to smooth the rough edges, there is better than an even chance that Mr. Ratcliffe may emerge the No. 1 hero next Friday afternoon.

Athlete Night At Boston Y.M.H.A.

Boston Y. M. H. A. will hold its annual Fall athletic night in the Seaver street gym, tomorrow with a program including amateur and professional boxing and wrestling bouts, an exhibition by New England's table tennis stars, tumbling and acrobatics, short talks by sporting luminaries

Malden's Loss

Star's Leg Fractured

Joe Driscoll, Malden's star fullback, who was thought to have only a badly sprained ankle when he was taken out of last Saturday's game against Somerville, was found to have a fractured left leg today.

Driscoll will be unable to play in the two most important games of the season, this week's contest with Everett and the annual Thanksgiving Day game with Medford.

Vaughn Dargie, another outstanding back, will also be lost for the remainder of the schedule. Dargie suffered a fractured kneecap in the Somerville game.

INJURIES HIT FORDHAM

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Fordham started preparations for North Carolina. Three regulars are on the injured list. Lou Defilippo, center, definitely is out and Ray Riddick and Jim Hayes also.

Loses 8 Straight, Job Safe

NEW PORT RICHEY, Fla., Nov. 9 (INS)—Football Coach Paul Stephens of Gunlf High was just as happy today as though his team hadn't:

Lost eight straight games;
Had 443 points scored against it;
Failed to score a single point.

No one is after Stephens' job and no one is criticizing him. In fact, he has been praised by the townsfolk

Smiles of victory wreath faces of Leverett Saltonstall and his wife as they push through crowded Parker House lobby to return home after triumph in race for governorship. Republican vote turnout in Boston amazed experts.

of joy at election brims over for Leverett Saltonstall, but this cup he's holding contains tasty coffee. A few crackers, munched hurriedly, complete his first victory banquet.

Home

at the radio the Saltonstalls listen for near-final returns in the election after he had been named new governor of Massachusetts over former Governor James M. Curley by decisive margin.
